

Thwart $500,000 Ransom Pickup, Girl's Whereabouts Still Unknown

By MATTHEW T. KENNY

MIAMI (UPI)—Police happened onto a ransom pickup by two of Barbara Jane Mackle's kidnapers early today and, in an exchange of gunfire along a fashionable bayfront section, the men dropped a suitcase crammed with a half-million dollars.

The two men fled into a densely wooded area about the size of three city blocks. Police and helicopters searched the area full of mangrove and palm trees but officers expressed fears that the men had slipped away.

Whereabouts Unknown

The whereabouts of Miss Mackle, who was kidnaped before dawn Tuesday from an Atlanta motel room, remained unknown. Fred A. Frohbose, FBI agent-in-charge, said the search for her continued. He specifically denied a report that she had returned home.

The break in the two-day-old kidnaping came at dawn when, after a tense night of waiting, a suitcase that apparently had been placed at a pre-arranged drop site was picked up by the two men.

Robert Mackle, the millionaire father of the 20-year-old girl, had come up with $500,000 in used $20 bills that were placed in the suitcase at the direction of the kidnapers.

Police received a call from a resident saying that a man was in the area with a rifle. Patrolmen T. S. Self and W. J. Sweeney arrived and saw two men parked in a blue Volvo automobile with a Massachusetts license plate.

FBI agent Frohbose said shots were exchanged when the officers approached the men and the two kidnapers fled into the woods.

Frohbose said the two officers obviously didn't know the two men were involved in a ransom pickup but had simply come by on a complaint from a citizen.

"Mr. Mackle was doing everything possible to comply with the demands of the kidnapers," the agent said. "It was just one of those things. If the police get a complaint from a citizen they have no choice but to answer that complaint. They had no way of knowing this was connected with the Mackle kidnaping."

Lt. James Knight theorized that the men left the car and took a boat on Biscayne Bay to pick up the ransom and then returned to the car. A mysterious runabout boat was found on the water's edge by a resident who phoned police to complain.

Contact Made

The first indication there had been contact between the Mackles and the kidnapers came from a family friend, the Rev. John Mulcahy, who said the Mackles had reason to believe their daughter was alive and well. The Roman Catholic priest, who visited the Mackle home in Coral Gables Wednesday, declined to say more.

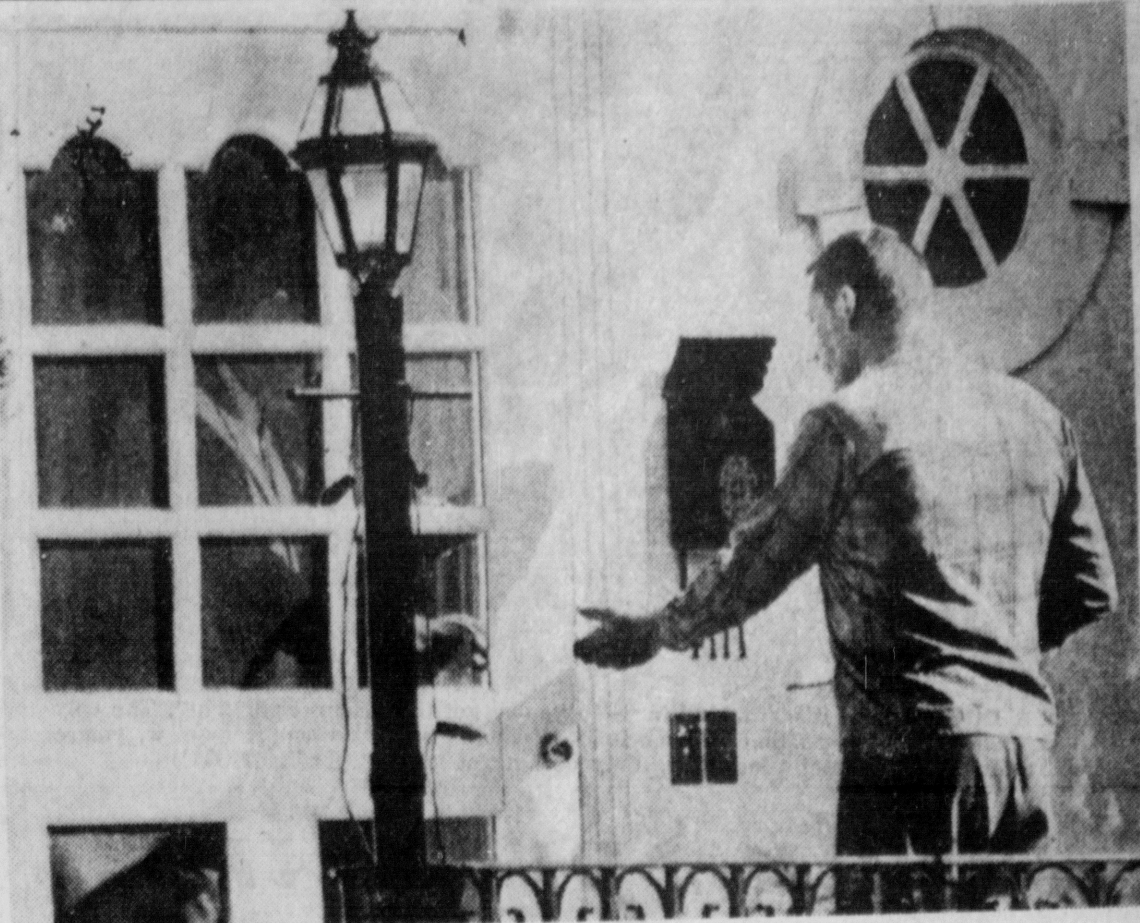

Mackle and his wife, who had been left bound and chloroformed by the kidnapers in the motel, spent Wednesday in their home awaiting a contact. Authorities declined to say when it was made, but a Western Union messenger delivered an envelope to the home during the afternoon.

Police surprised the kidnapers at a point in Miami about five miles from the Mackles' Coral Gables home.

Nixon Friend

Mackle, 57, is one of the nation's biggest homebuilders and a friend of President-elect Richard M. Nixon. His daughter is a coed at Emory University in Atlanta.

The kidnapers had been described by Mrs. Mackle as a man in a black jacket and a small male. The man in the jacket held a shotgun on her while the other man bound her. They apparently left word then that they would be in contact with her later.

Resumption of Bombing Threat by U.S.: Hanoi

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam said today the United States has threatened to resume bombing of North Vietnam if the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) unleashes a new offensive in the South.

The North Vietnamese statement was released following a meeting between Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, the No. 2 U.S. negotiator, and Col. Ha Van Lau, his North Vietnamese counterpart.

The North Vietnamese communique quoted the Americans as saying that if the Viet Cong resumes its attacks on Saigon, "this would create a situation in which it would be impossible to carry on serious negotiations (in Paris) and maintain the bombing halt."

South Vietnamese military officials said this week the Communists were massing up to 30,000 men for a new offensive on Saigon and predicted another enemy effort to capture Da Nang.

Military reports from Saigon today reported continued shelling of U.S. camps guarding Saigon and a series of battles on the defensive fringes of the South Vietnamese capital.

The United States protested sharply against previous Viet Cong attacks on South Vietnamese cities as a violation of the agreement by which President Johnson ended the bombing of North Vietnam on Nov. 1. It also protested Communist military activity in the Demilitarized Zone.

Vance met with Lau today in what diplomatic sources called an "extremely important" meeting. It had been hoped the talks would get the stalled Paris talks going. The blunt U.S.

warning to the Communist side came as a surprise.

Only a few hours before the Viet Cong announced they were releasing three American prisoners of war in South Vietnam for "humanitarian reasons" and to show their desire for peace. However they coupled this announcement with another series of statements which made it clear they were not easing their stand.

The Viet Cong said they planned to free "a number" of U.S. and South Vietnamese prisoners to mark the eighth anniversary of their National Liberation Front (NLF).

Diplomats said the Viet Cong might be trying to gain official recognition from the United States and South Vietnam, withheld at the Paris talks.

Communists shell four U.S. camps guarding Saigon. This story and a report that U.S. and South Vietnamese battle casualties took sharp upswing last week. . . Page 46.

It said the United States should send no more than five unarmed men at 3 p.m. on Christmas Day to discuss the release of three prisoners. The Viet Cong would be flying their flag to mark the spot, the radio said.

The Communist broadcast proposed the first meeting for the junction of a highway and a river near Tay Ninh City, in the middle of a 30,000-man guerrilla buildup northwest of Saigon.

U.S. and South Vietnamese troops "should stop all military activities" in the area during the meeting, the Viet Cong said. But they gave no details as to how they planned to release the prisoners once the details were ironed out.

There were these other developments indicating how difficult the peace negotiations may be:

The Viet Cong coupled its prisoner announcement with a call on the South Vietnamese to overthrow the Saigon regime and install a "peace cabinet to discuss peace."

A Viet Cong spokesman disclosed that Dan Van Thu, a high military commander, would soon arrive in Paris to bolster Communist victory claims in South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong spokesman rejected suggestions for separate military talks between the United States and North Vietnam as proposed recently by the U.S. defense secretary.

The Communists rejected a proposal made by Henry Kissinger, national security affairs adviser to President-elect Richard M. Nixon, calling for direct political talks between Saigon and the Viet Cong. The Saigon government also was cool to the idea.

Cambodians Releasing 12 American Prisoners

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk today said Cambodia is releasing all 12 American servicemen it holds prisoner. "We will give satisfaction to President Johnson," he told newsmen.

Sihanouk said the Americans being released include the 11-man crew of a patrol craft that strayed into Cambodian waters July 17 and a helicopter crewman captured last month.

In a news conference, Sihanouk said the 11 patrol craft crewmembers were being freed today, delivered to the Australian embassy and allowed "to return home in time to spend the Christmas holidays with their families."

He also announced the release of a South Vietnamese soldier arrested in the boat with the Americans. Two hours later the prince called a second news conference. He said the French embassy had delivered to him a "personal message" from President Johnson asking for the liberation of the 12 U.S. servicemen.

In the first news conference Sihanouk criticized Johnson for sending no such message.

In the second news conference, Sihanouk noted the message and announced the helicopter crewman was also being freed.

Sihanouk said at the first news conference the patrol craft, a U.S. landing craft, was being held as "a weak compensation for the loss in human lives and possessions caused by the Americans on the Cambodian border." The Vietnam War is being fought next door, to the east in South Vietnam.

Sihanouk said the boat could be returned when the United States recognized the Cambodian border. Cambodian and South Vietnam dispute their border.

The vessel was seized July 17 by the Cambodian navy after it strayed too far up the Mekong River into Cambodian territory.

Reunion Party Ends in Death As Berserk Father Murders Four

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—A father of 10 shot his estranged wife and three other persons and wounded four of his children at a reunion party in a public welfare office Wednesday. He later fatally wounded himself.

Authorities said Sherman Kline, 35, was to have been reunited with his family in the Carlinville offices of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services. The father had shot at one of the caseworkers last May, then fired at a deputy sheriff who tried to arrest him, and had been a fugitive, during which time the family was broken up.

Kline entered the welfare offices in the second floor of a frame building above a drug store facing the town square and opened fire with two guns, police said.

Killed were his wife Lorraine, 33; the caseworker at whom he had shot last May, Frank Wildegrub, 25; another caseworker, Mrs. Bonnie Albrecht, 23 and Mrs. Ann Keppler, 28, a stenographer who was to have been married in two weeks.

Kline wounded four of his seven children gathered for the party while three others, one a 15-year-old married daughter, hid behind a desk. He then fled 60 miles to the O'Fallon, Mo., home of a brother and confessed what he had done. He then ran outside to a grove of trees and shot himself once in the head, and died later in a St. Charles, Mo., hospital.

Besides the three unharmed children, eyewitnesses to the shootings were Don Jones, newsmen for radio station WFMI at Litchfield and Mrs. Mary Lou Staltz, another employee. Jones said Kline tried to kill him.

The body of Lorraine Kline lay among the unopened presents and the four wounded children—Michael, 14, Gene, 13, and Judy, 10, and Diane, 8. Diane and Mike, gravely wounded, were taken to St. John's Hospital in Springfield, 35 miles northeast. Gene and Judy were less seriously wounded and taken to Carlinville area hospital.

Mrs. Bennett, Paul, 12, and Randy, 3, took refuge behind a desk as their father opened fire with a .25 caliber and a .22 caliber pistol.

He then raced down the hallway, shooting at whomever he saw. Mrs. Albrecht died in the hallway and Mrs. Keppler, eating a piece of Christmas fruit cake had taken her shoes off to ease her feet. She died at her desk.

Two and a half hours later, Kline appeared at the home of his brother, Vernon, in O'Fallon, and told him about the shootings. Vernon said he begged his brother to give himself up. Vernon's wife called police.

Vernon said later he was "not surprised" at what happened next. His brother dashed from the house to a grove of trees a quarter mile away and Vernon said he heard three shots. Police found Kline lying face up under a tree, blood pouring to the ground from a single bullet wound above his left eye.

FLUORIDATION: Do Tablets Work?

By SHANE CROSBY
(Second of 3 Articles)

The "To fluoridate or not to fluoridate" question brought about the birth of many groups and committees both for and against in the Kingston area during the heyday of the issue.

The groups flourished during the 1962 battle of Kingston and the 1965 skirmish of Saugerties, but have fallen back into inactivity in the past few years.

One of the most vocal proponents of fluoridation in the area is Dr. Irving Dreishpoon, a Saugerties dentist who has been active in the fight for many years.

The most recent action in the on-again-off-again battle was in 1965 when the Saugerties Lions Club formed a committee headed by the dentist to recommend to the Saugerties Village Board that they approve the fluoridation of drinking water coming out of Blue Mountain Reservoir.

Special

The forming of the Lions Club committee brought back to life a major force against water fluoridation in Kingston.

The Kingston Pure Water Committee, foreseeing another round in the controversy, reactivated itself and elected officers.

Little came of the 1965 actions and both groups sooner or later disbanded, or at least quieted down.

Cites Apathy

When asked about the recent activities of his committee, Dr. Dreishpoon commented that "apathy" in Saugerties killed the issue.

"There is complete apathy in Saugerties" on the fluoridation question, he said recently. "We (the committee) decided that if the people were not interested, we should drop it."

The dentist added that he is feeling as strong about the need for fluoridation of water systems as before and as an alternative to that he gives fluoride tablets to his patients.

Two main points against fluoridation stand above all others. One is that the addition of fluoride to water cuts down on the quality of the water.

The second is that the dental aid should be administered by the individual as is felt it is needed.

Unless a person is drinking rain water that has been collected in a clean container above the layer of pollution in the air, it is difficult to call water "pure." Claims that pure water one is drinking, depend upon the water one is drinking.

In "Water Supply Control," by Charles R. Cox, writing for the Bureau of Environmental Sanitation for the State Department of Health, it is noted that "In fact over 50 per cent of the municipalities in New York State are served by ground water" as opposed to surface water from rivers and brooks. Cox explains that the ground water also services brooks and rivers in dry seasons.

Rain water is free from impurities except dust and gasses it collects on the way down. Also unless rain water is collected before it hits the ground, it will collect minerals dissolved or loosened from the soil.

"Ordinary ground water is free from bacteria and other organic organisms except in the vicinity of cesspools, etc., which lead to direct discharge of bacterial pollution into the soil."

"Nothing can be done to prevent the solution of minerals such as iron, manganese, or limestone, but wells and springs can be protected from bacterial pollution."

Tablets Effective

Dr. Link said "self medication" of the chemical in the form of tablets is as reliable as offering tablets for chlorination of water instead of the present process of adding chlorine to water systems.

Fluoride tablets are offered by at least a dozen pharmaceutical firms and a sampling of local dentists shows most advise them to patients.

Dr. Dreishpoon commented that most or all of the children under his care are on the tablets. He said they are the most reliable alternative to fluoridation of water through community supply systems.

Most official dental publications and recorded statements by manufacturers contend that the tablets are about half as effective as mass fluoridation.

The Upjohn Company, a major supplier of fluoride solutions, stated in an article on the subject that "Your dentist may apply fluoride solution directly to your child's teeth. This method is said to be about 40 per cent effective, as compared with drinking fluoridated water."

The major problem is that a person undergoing "self medication" adds a unwarranted degree of unreliability to the quality of the medication over a long period of time. But dental authorities are also quick to point out that the best prevention is obtained when the fluoride is administered from birth—or even before.

'SICK AS A DOG' — Sure it's a dog's life when you've got the "Hong Kong Flu". The only way to describe this sickness that is sweeping the country is that when you get it, you're "sick as a dog". Fortunately for dogs, they do not get it. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

The Flu Spreading, Also Beds President

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Hong Kong flu or related illnesses spread into 40 states, the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) said Wednesday. President Lyndon Johnson was hospitalized with flu at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

The NCDC added five states—Indiana, Tennessee, Idaho, Louisiana and North Dakota—to its flu list and warned the current outbreak appears to be intensifying.

Federal health officials said 23 states now have documented outbreaks of Hong Kong flu, seven have listed isolated cases and 10 report flu-like illnesses. The District of Columbia and Puerto Rico also have flu outbreaks.

President Johnson entered the hospital Wednesday for a stay of several days for treatment of an "upper respiratory ailment."

A White House aide, George Christian, said the ailment actually amounted to the flu. Health officials in Washington, D.C., said 10 per cent of the population of the nation's capital had contracted a "flu-like illness." Nearby Baltimore, Md., had a 15 per cent attack rate.

Also in Washington, Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson said the epidemic may cause delays in Christmas mail deliveries in some sections of the country.

He cited heavy absentee reports from Southern California, the South, Southwest and the Northeast.

The Los Angeles post office said 800 workers were out with the flu. Long Beach, Calif., had 150 postal employees out and 122 were off their jobs in Pasadena.

Other hard-hit postal departments were Miami, Fla., Savannah, Ga., Richmond, Va., Philadelphia and New York.

In Chicago, acting health commissioner Morgan O'Connell issued a "strongly worded" appeal to drug firms for Hong Kong flu vaccine to combat a "major outbreak" in the city.

Industrial absenteeism in Chicago is reported at 200,000; around 700 of Chicago's 12,000 policemen are sick and 14 per cent of the school children are absent.

The Boston Red Cross said the epidemic is endangering the city's blood supply because donors are sick and not able to give blood. Red Cross officials had appealed to healthy residents to donate blood immediately.

Directors OK Norwich and Morton Merger

NORWICH, N.Y. (AP) — Directors of Norwich Pharmacal Co. and Morton International Inc. have approved in principle Wednesday a combination into a company to be known as Morton-Norwich Products, Inc.

The directors, in meetings in Norwich and Chicago, authorized negotiations leading to the creation of the company.

Norwich and Morton would continue as separate enterprises under current managements. The combination would be accomplished through an exchange of stock.

Norwich produces pharmaceuticals, household products, animal health products, and industrial and agricultural products, and automotive and household maintenance aids.

Rosendale Says No to Facility Bid

By LYNN MULVANEY
ROSENDALE — An application to build a powder magazine at Joppenberg Mountain was denied the American Cyanamid Corporation by the Village of Rosendale recently.

The denial of the building permit was made known at a meeting of the village board last night at which it was revealed that attorney William Curran had previously arranged to lease land for the magazine to the corporation. Village officials said they felt that the proposed facility would pose a threat to the well-being of Rosendale residents.

Mayor Joseph Reid and William Ritter, the only councilman present at last night's meeting discussed a number of village concerns, including a proposed sewage system, young people's problems and delinquent water accounts.

Ritter told of a new proposal he had made to the town board through Town Justice Raymond LeFever.

He proposes that the village police force be abolished and that the town police offer the village protection. In return the village would allow the town more space at the dump.

Ritter said such a plan would save the village $3,000 of its police budget (four part-time constables) and would do away with the dual coverage the village now receives from the town and itself.

The councilman also pointed out that the town has a definite need for more dump space and dump.

"We have plenty of room. Let them (the town) maintain the said she had written the town but had received no reply."

$54,000 Tab for Hurley Span Job

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
Replacement of the Hurley Mountain Road wooden plank bridge which spans the 11 & D Division rails of Penn-Central crossing, will cost Ulster County $54,000.

This estimate was given by Jack Wood, assistant engineer of the County Highway Department at the Wednesday hearing of the Public Service Commission on disposition of the one-lane span.

Testimony brought out at the hearing noted that the railroad and no one will do anything recently spent about $3,500 to about it until someone gets

"the corncrib bridge." The repairs immediately received the criticism of the County Legislature's Bridge and Highway Committee.

Legislator Frank Miller, R-2nd District, chairman of the committee said at that time that this span even if newly reconstructed as it was in 1981, would be unable to carry present day traffic loads.

At the hearing Legislator Miller said the span will never meet modern transportation needs. He said it was dangerous hearing noted that the railroad and no one will do anything recently spent about $3,500 to about it until someone gets asking that they meet with the village concerning the matter but had received no reply.

An engineer and attorney spoke for the railroad and reported that they had just spent about $3,500 to repair the span this past summer and could not justify another expenditure. However the railroad representative was in agreement that grade crossing would solve the immediate problem.

George Fitchner, acting county superintendent of highways also represented the county with Wood, who directed the questioning for the county.

Herbert Hekler, director of Ulster County Planning board spoke about the future of the area and the future need of good bridges to support the traffic of the future.

Other members of the Bridge and Highways Committee attending were Legislators Philip H. Davis, R-11th District, and Eugene Noe, R-9th District.

C.A. Underwood represented Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., and Kenneth Smith, the State Department of Transportation.

Town Tax Rates

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

Tax rates in 18 of 20 townships in Ulster County are lower for next year. However, Shandaken has a .16 increase and Hardenbergh will have a $1.94 hike in its rate.

The final town tax rates were announced Wednesday by Clerk of the Legislature Edward W. Snyder.

The Town of Gardiner will have the largest decrease in its tax rate with a cut of $19.56 below its 1968 rate of $89.42. The decrease can be attributed to a decrease in county charges assessed against the township, a decrease in the town's highway tax rate of $3, and a change in its equalization rate from 13 to 15. This means the property in the town is assessed at 15 per cent of true value.

The next largest decrease is in New Paltz where the rate will go down $8.12 below its 1968 rate of $82.55. This has been attributed to the large increase of new properties on the tax roll as well as less county charges than the previous year.

The Town of Plattekill rate is nearly 10 times lower than last year, but this is due to an equalization change. The township has increased its property value by 10 times and this changes its equalization rate from 6 to 60.

No rate is available at this time for the City of Kingston as the city's 1969 budget will not be unveiled until Dec. 26. This tax table showing changes is listed below.

FLARE UP AT BORDER — A yelling, whooping band of Indians from the St. Regis reservation which straddles the borders of New York State, Ontario and Quebec, blocked the Seaway International Bridge leading to Massena Wednesday. The battle with the federal government was over the right to transport goods duty free across the Canadian-American border. There were a number of arrests after a punching, shoving and pushing match flared up. Woman being lead away is Indian Princess, Kahn-Tineta Horn. (UPI TELE-HOTO).

Gold Speculation

Nixon Dampens Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon and his advisers see no need for any new instructions to Cabinet nominees about talking in public, despite the flurry of gold price speculation set off by the comments of David Kennedy, who is to head the Treasury Department.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press assistant, said Cabinet appointees should and will continue to discuss their views and philosophies.

Hearing Adjourned

City Judge Hubert A. Richter has adjourned until Jan. 4, 1969, a hearing in the case of Vincent E. Schoonmaker, 22, of 27 Liberty Street, who faces charges of criminal trespass and possessing burglary tools. He was arrested earlier this month in Kingston Hospital.

There were no cows in America when Columbus first landed in the New World.

his aides, remains unchanged. Kennedy was one of three Cabinet designates due to see Nixon today. Ziegler said that meeting was arranged before the troublesome gold question arose.

That happened Tuesday in Washington when Kennedy, hewing to the Nixon instructions against policy statements, refused to flatly commit himself to the current $35-an-ounce price of gold.

This was taken by dealers in European gold markets as a hint that the new administration might not be wedded to the price which has stood unchanged for 34 years. Gold purchases and prices rose.

Nixon acted to dampen the speculation by announcing, through Ziegler, that he anticipates no change in the gold price.

Other Cabinet choices on the Nixon calling list today were Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, who is to be secretary of the interior, and George P. Shultz, designated secretary of labor. The President-elect also was to see Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California who was defeated for renomination and will be leaving the Senate.

He also had appointments with Rep. Ogden Reid of New York and economist Arthur Burns, a campaign advisor.

Wednesday evening, Nixon went with Mrs. Nixon to a Manhattan movie house to see the film, "The Charge of the Light Brigade."

Closed Circuit TV for Ike

Julie Nixon and David's Plans Stay Private

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) — When Julie Nixon and David Eisenhower said they wanted their wedding Sunday to be a private affair, they really meant it.

Guest List Secret

The guest list for the marriage of the daughter of the President-elect to the grandson of the former president is still a secret—although it has been learned there are few political or public figures included.

Information about Julie's wedding gown, her attendants' dresses, the single-ring ceremony at Marble Collegiate Church and the reception at the Plaza Hotel will not be released until the last minute.

And there will be no news coverage allowed either of the ceremony or the reception.

"Julie said she did not want anyone watching that wedding who was not a personal friend or someone she knows," Mrs. Gerry Van der Heuvel, Julie's mother's press aide, said Thursday.

Mrs. Van der Heuvel did give out a few tidbits—including the fact that the ceremony will be broadcast, via closed circuit television, to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower who is in Walter Reed Army Hospital recuperating from a series of heart attacks.

She also said that David's sister Barbara Anne, who was married Nov. 16, will be a bridesmaid and her husband, Fernando Echavarria-Urbe of Bogota, Colombia, will be an usher. Julie was one of Barbara Anne's attendants.

Luncheon for Julie

Asked about parties for the bride, Mrs. Van der Heuvel said there would be a luncheon given for Julie Friday at the Cosmopolitan Club by Susan Harvin of Houston, Tex., who will be a bridesmaid.

The rehearsal will be Saturday afternoon, by which time the church will be decorated with Christmas greenery and red and white poinsettias the Nixons requested for the platform at the head of the aisle.

The rehearsal dinner, given by David's parents, Mr. and

Dispute Still Unresolved

Military Defeat for Indians

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — A band of Mohawk Indians held off the government of Canada for about two hours Wednesday before taking a military defeat. Still unresolved, however, was a dispute over a treaty made in 1794.

"There will be no blockage Thursday," Ernest Benedict, the craggy-faced, black-haired chief of the Indians on Cornwall Island said after a demonstration at the international bridge on the island left 48 of his tribesmen in jail.

"It is not the Indian way, to be arrested," Benedict said.

Wednesday, Canadian police waded through a wall of angry Mohawks and 25 automobiles to clear the passageway between the United States and Canada. Indian men, women and children threw their bodies in front of tow trucks set to clear the automobiles. There were no injuries.

"I tried to keep everyone calm on both sides," Benedict said, his arms folded on the long kitchen table he sometimes uses for meetings with other tribal leaders.

"But it seemed too much to me. We were there for a purpose."

The Indians, members of the St. Regis Reservation that is bisected by the Canadian-American border, are angered because they say they are being forced to pay Canadian duties traveling on the bridge to and from the American and Canadian sections of the reservation.

This, they say, is a violation of the Jay Treaty of 1794, a treaty engineered by John Jay, chief justice of the United States, and signed by the United States and Canada.

The treaty guaranteed the Mohawks the right to travel, unhindered, between both countries.

The treaty was reaffirmed between the two countries in Ghent, Belgium, after the war of 1812. Canada, however, which did not become a nation until 1867, never ratified the document. Canadian law specifies that legislative action must be taken before a treaty has the force of law.

Some residents of the border area say the Indian discontent goes much deeper than just the payment of duties.

For example, says a minister who lives nearby, even though the Indians — who often intermarry and have families on both sides of the border — frequently cross the bridge, they are still stopped, asked if they are immigrants and made to obtain a slip of paper with their status on it.

Benedict, in an open letter to the Canadian people and government, said, "We...have become victims of a great error on the part of your government."

Benedict said his people were receiving support, both monetary and moral, from other Indian tribes in the United States and Canada.

The arrested, including the sister of one of the leaders, Mrs. Kohn Tineta Horn, were taken to Cornwall Jail, where they were to wait, pending the arrival of bail money, until hearings Friday.

Bail was set at $200 for 47 of the arrested and at $1,000 for Mrs. Horn, who was charged with carrying a knife concealed beneath her clothing.

TV Newsmen Scored by Their Own

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A

veteran television reporter charged today most Americans get their news off TV from "a handsome, but empty headed character with no news training, pontificating off the teleprompter from a script someone else (or a wire service) has written on something he knows nothing about."

Robert MacNeil, a former NBC newscaster now with the British Broadcasting Co., said under questioning that this type of television news delivery represents the lowest level of performance and is not true throughout the industry. He refused to name any of the so-called pontificators.

MacNeil was the first witness as the President's Commission on Violence reopened hearings on the communications media in an attempt to learn why violence is news.

Ben H. Bagdikian, a former Saturday Evening Post editor, told the commission from Old Testament to Playboy magazine, sex and violence have rated automatic consideration as news.

MacNeil said television newscasters "are required to succeed as entertainers—succeed by attracting the maximum audience. They have traditionally been chosen with emphasis on their good looks, resonant voices, pleasing manner and way of combining reassurance with authority, rather than their intelligence, education, or abilities as journalists."

He said there is a "whole syndrome in television news, which at its worst involves a handsome but empty headed character with no news training, pontificating off the teleprompter from a script someone else (or a wire service) has written on something he knows nothing about."

"There are all gradations from this extreme from some local stations up to the top of the networks where the leading commentators are men of ability and wisdom," MacNeil said.

"Even the networks have not found the inclination, or the money, to provide enough original reporting to qualify them as news-gathering organizations."

"They are still news purveying organizations, heavily dependent on the wire services," MacNeil suggested that isolation of television commentators from the world they are reporting "may have been responsible for some of the surprise the top commentators registered at police behavior in Chicago."

He referred to controversial television coverage of police conduct during demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last August.

Say Shriver Choice

WASHINGTON (UPI)—R.

Sargent Shriver, the U.S. ambassador to France, has been chosen as President-elect Richard M. Nixon's new ambassador to the United Nations, informed sources indicated today.

The sources, when asked about Shriver's appointment, told United Press International that the "indication is that he will take the job."

They said that Shriver had been asked by Nixon to accept the top American post at the United Nations more than a week ago.

In Washington, as well as in New York, sources indicated that the present U.N. Ambassador, J. R. Wiggins, will definitely leave the post after Nixon's inauguration.

When asked in New York if Nixon's U.N. choice was a Democrat, Ronald Ziegler, the president-elect's press aide said "oh, yes."

"The decision has been made and an announcement will be forthcoming later this week."

Officially, Ziegler refused to elaborate.

Aides to Nixon said Shriver was not the only man considered for the U.N. job. There were indications that Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for president, had also been approached.

One Nixon source said it was reasonable to assume that the president-elect was having trouble getting a firm acceptance from his choice for the job.

Ellenville and C-H

Confrontation Shapes Up

By CHARLES BERMPHOHL
ELLENVILLE — A confrontation is shaping up between this Wawarsing population center and the giant Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company.

Behind the confrontation is the rate schedule by which the utility company charges municipalities for the amount of electricity they use.

Village Manager Paul Boucher yesterday questioned that rate structure, hoping, that through metered readings, rather than an average rate determined by the company, expenditures for electricity can be reduced by as much as 20 per cent.

A Central Hudson spokesman, on the other hand, declared that the municipal rate structure was "considerably lower" than the ordinary meter rates and he went on to question how well-informed the newly-hired manager was.

Boucher claimed that while serving as town manager of Saugus, Mass., he helped save the municipality $20,000 a year on its rates simply by having the town demand the meter system.

Balked for Three Months

The town, he said, made its demands effective by simply refusing to pay its electric bill for three months.

Boucher asserted that the utilities companies "throughout the United States" charged municipalities by what he called the "lumen" scheme—a pre-determined set rate.

He said that the lumen measurement was a "very technical" charging device and he pointed to the Webster Dictionary definition of the term which had it that a lumen was "a unit of luminous flux equal to light emitted in a unit solid angle by uniform point source equal to one candle."

Boucher said that the light the village uses would go up in the winter time because of the shorter daylight hours and go down during the summer months.

He produced Central Hudson bills, however, that show a little or no fluctuation in the rates.

The average monthly billing for Ellenville is approximately $1,500 and there is a demonstrably little or no fluctuation in the amount charged by the utility company.

The Central Hudson spokesman, Robert Strickland, a lighting engineer, said that the municipal rate schedules, figured out in advance, are flat rates based on 4,000 hours usage.

Strickland explained that in a metered situation, the services of a meter reader have to be employed and that this costs money.

The municipalities, he said, escape this charge.

More Disagreement

The two men disagreed on other points as well. Boucher claimed that "more and more municipalities are going to municipal generation (setting up their own lighting companies) rather than to the private or public utilities."

"It's cheaper in the long run," he said.

Strickland, when hearing of this comment, said, "Many municipalities find municipal-owned facilities too expensive," and he cited the need for specially-trained personnel to handle the generator plant and the lines, along with special equipment.

The utility company's lighting engineer also declared that Central Hudson would not let any one else touch their power lines other than their trained workers.

The village manager said that "what municipalities have to do is watchdog the situation," and he pointed out that a municipality "is by far the biggest user of electricity."

He also said that while he had nothing against Central Hudson, "in the situations I have been involved in, I have called it the rape and pillage of a municipality."

Boucher said that "municipal governments have been subjected to this kind of measurement" for far too long.

The subject was first broached during the recent village board meeting and it was discussed in relation to an expanded street lighting program for the village.

Will Research Bills

Boucher said yesterday that he would be "researching the bills" paid to Central Hudson over the past year and that he would "get together" with company officials on the matter.

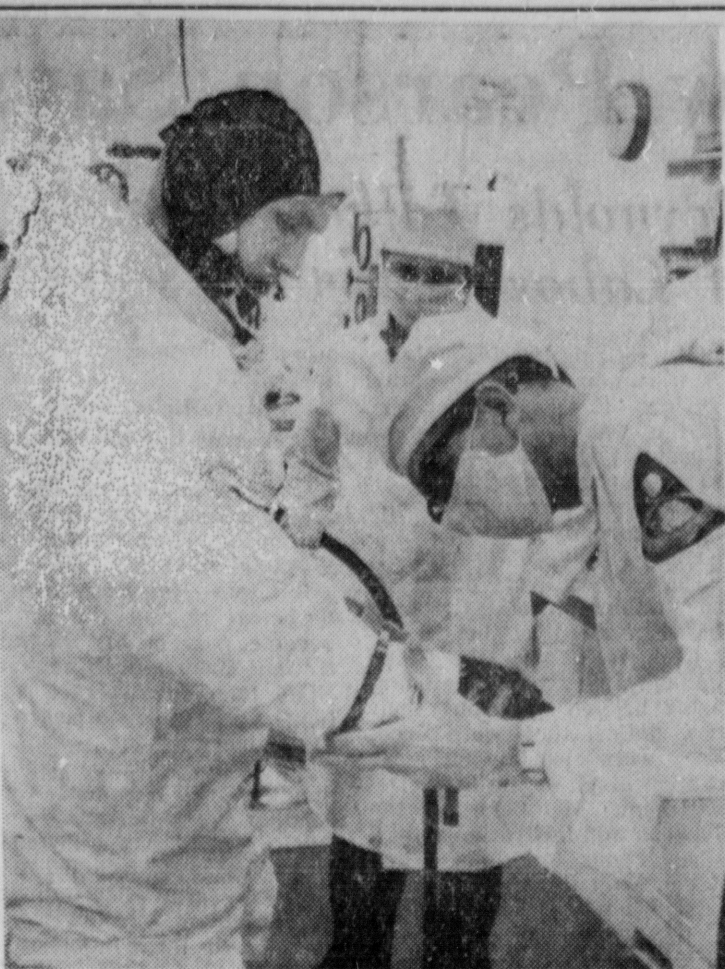

He told The Freeman, "I hope we can come to an agreement on a reasonable street lighting program."

Strickland also said he wanted to meet Boucher.

EARTHLY CHECKS — Masked technicians help astronaut Frank Borman don his space suit during practice exercise for the mission of Apollo-8 at Cape Kennedy, Fla. Astronauts Borman, Bill Anders, and James Lovell are highly restricted in their contacts with other people as space agency officials attempt to protect them from contracting colds or the "Honk Kong" flu. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

A Key Apollo Step

By AL ROSSITER JR.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Engineers began the ticklish job of turning on the Apollo 8 electrical powerplant today in a key step toward the launch of three men on a Yuletide adventure around the moon.

Everything is pointing toward an on-time, 7:51 a.m. EST Saturday launch for astronauts Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders. Even the weatherman is optimistic.

The astronauts are on hand at their nearby moonport quarters to get a small-scale preview of their Saturn 5's blastoff fury when a slim Delta rocket lured a communications satellite into orbit Wednesday night.

Although they had more practice flying and in a simulator and reviews of their mission on their schedule today, the astronauts' training activity had started slowing down. It was time, as Borman put it, to just relax and kind of get off this hectic pace.

"We're going to take the evenings and sit around and talk about how we're going to fly the thing," he said.

With the countdown in the critical last 48 hours, activity on the 363-foot space machine at the oceanside launch pad was picking up.

Most of the work today was devoted to activating three fuel cell units that will generate the electricity needed to power the moonship system. This included pumping frigid liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen into the craft to feed the fuel cells.

Apollo 8's six-day mission plan is virtually a list of firsts for man in space and Borman, Lovell and Anders have sharpened their flying skills for months to meet the demands of journeying a quarter of a million miles from home and coming back.

The astronauts will begin their voyage by soaring into a low orbit around earth—known as a parking orbit. Then, if everything is working properly, they will be cleared to restart the third stage of the Saturn rocket and blastoff toward the moon.

Rail Union Combine

The merger of four rail unions whose 280,000 membership embraces seven out of eight operating trainmen was followed immediately with the announcement of objectives which indicate that they will concentrate on upgrading railroad safety and improved passenger service. These are welcome aims because congested highways are turning the public to thoughts of mass transportation, which can bring a renaissance of rail travel.

In fact, the new combine, which has adopted the name of the United Transportation Union—room enough there for organizations other than serve the rails—first plan to prepare a mass transportation bill, which will spell out the kind of transportation system that will best serve the nation. This is a fresh approach after the years in which mass transportation has been gradually choked off until it is a shadow of itself.

The merger did not come easily. There was a month of voting before the rank and file gave their approval. Agreeable were the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Order of Railroad Conductors and Brakemen and Switchmen's Union of North America. The only dissenter was the 40,000-member Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the aristocrats of the rail, noted for their independence and self-assurance.

The big new UTU will wield the power of numbers—it represents 85 per cent of the operating personnel. It is likely to make some costly demands, since it pools most of the men who make the rails go. But its leaders know they must have the public behind them. That is one reason we can hope that they will emphasize service and safety, and will swing a needed influence to revive and popularize mass transportation.

Holiday Drivers

It is unfortunate that the upsurge in traffic during the holiday season so often coincides with the worst possible weather. It is particularly unfortunate and often tragic that drivers don't seem to recognize or compensate for the added hazards of winter driving.

Judge H. H. Porter, who for many years served as president of the Safe Winter Driving League, points out that in addition to the normal, year-round hazards, winter-time driving often adds two additional perils—reduced visibility and inadequate traction.

With Ulster County highway deaths climbing at a record rate, more emphasis must be placed by motor vehicle operators on common-sense precautions.

Drivers should realize that performance on snow and ice is no where near that on dry pavement and that speeds must be sharply reduced and longer following distances observed.

For best visibility during winter storms, all windows should be kept clear, not only the windshield but the side and rear windows as well.

Make sure that your car is in first-class mechanical condition, especially those items that affect traction and visibility.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California tangled at the Republican Governors Conference. Rockefeller proposed the Federal Government take over the cost of welfare from the states and set national standards. Reagan said the way to cut down welfare costs was to permit the states to enforce their own residence programs. The two biggest states have the same problem of importing welfare clients, but they would handle it differently.

Showdown Between Labor, Management Approaching

WASHINGTON — A climax in relations between management and labor in America is approaching, and the Nixon administration will probably have to find the answer to the problem that has continued for many years to damage the economic life of the country through prolonged strikes.

Company officials and prominent union leaders speak favorably of the new secretary of labor, George P. Shultz. He is dean of the graduate school of business of the University of Chicago and has been chosen often by both sides to act as an umpire or arbitrator in labor disputes.

What the prospective secretary has said before and since his appointment was a announced indicates an awareness of the need for a new formula. He believes that the federal government should not intervene as much as it has in the past and that the setting of "guidelines" by the president's council of Economic advisers is not a useful device.

Unquestionably there are strikes or threatened work stoppages which require some form of outside intervention, and Mr. Shultz points out that the existing federal mediation and conciliation service could be of great help in such cases. But he hopes these will be few.

Basically, of course, neither labor nor management wants governmental intervention. But it has to be recognized that both sides, when engaged in a delicate negotiation process, often take a position which forces the government, as the protector of the "public interest," to become directly involved.

In several instances in the past collective bargaining itself has seemed to be merely a preliminary procedure. Labor usually didn't make known the minimum wage scales that would be acceptable, and management likewise didn't reveal the maximum that would be offered. Instead, unions gambled for higher and higher levels, and, because management knew that labor would eventually settle for much less, the threat of a strike was discontinued. Then work stoppages occurred because one side could not outbluff the other.

Certainly American industry has grown so large that strikes in some fields can do serious damage to the economy and to the comfort and convenience of the people as well as to the many small businesses that distribute manufactured products.

Union labor has long felt that, for political reasons, a democratic administration would be on its side if the federal government intervened. The Nixon administration will have to make it clear, therefore, that it will not favor either one, but will insist upon collective bargaining as the real means of settling disputes. If there is an increase in serious interruptions to business, demand will arise for the enactment of a law providing for compulsory arbitration—something which neither side will relish.

As population grows and the national economy expands, several industries become more and more important to the stability of business operations. This means that the government will have to find a way to make sure that the public interest is not impaired by strikes. In the past, the device used has been to provide "cooling-off" periods during which strikes were prohibited. But, in the long run, this has proved simply a method of prolonging the bargaining process itself.

It seems certain that the strike problem will force a decision of compulsory arbitration of wage disputes. While Mr. Shultz speaks of it as one of the "relatively drastic types of solution" and doesn't like the method, he thinks that unless both labor and management show a regard for the public interest, the system of industrial relations "is going to change very drastically."

Mr. Shultz, in one of his speeches in the last few years about labor-management relations, declared that the government might step in to assure that a limited part of the steel industry, for instance, would remain in operation during a strike. He said this approach has not been tried very much, but "would seem to offer real potential for protecting the public interest." He continued:

"We could have limited, continued operation, but still let most of the strike go on—an approach built on the possibility of partial operation of struck facilities."

This raises the question of whether industry-wide bargaining, which compels management, will someday be effectively challenged as a kind of monopoly subject to anti-trust laws.

Drew Pearson Says

Jim Reynolds Talked Himself Out of Labor Secretary Job

WASHINGTON — There was some interesting backstage byplay before President-elect Nixon finally picked his Secretary of Labor.

Nixon's talent hunters took a poll of business leaders throughout the country and found that James J. Reynolds, now Under Secretary of Labor, came out at the top of the list. His rating was also very high with labor leaders.

Reynolds is the brother of the late writer Quentin Reynolds; served as vice president of the American Locomotive Company and a member of the National Labor Relations Board, as well as eight years as an executive of the Labor Department under Kennedy and Johnson. So it looked as if Reynolds would be the one Democrat appointed to the Nixon Cabinet. Nixon even sent Vice President-elect Agnew to interview the prospective Cabinet member.

"The President must know," Agnew told Reynolds, "if you will accept the position."

Reynolds replied that he would, that he considered it his duty to work for the good of any administration. But, he added: "If you want a Republican, you've got one and a good one, namely George Shultz."

Reynolds repeated this recommendation to various other Nixon talent-hunters. The recommendation sank home. In the end, Reynolds talked himself out of a job. George Shultz was named Secretary of Labor.

Cabinet Head Start

When Lyndon Johnson started the "head start" program for underprivileged children, he never expected to apply the same techniques to members of the Nixon administration. However, all Nixon Cabinet members, with their wives, are now participating in a head start program.

This is the first time in history the Cabinet wives have been briefed in advance regarding their duties. In the past, even new Cabinet members were given only superficial briefings. There was a spirit of animosity between some of the outgoing and incoming administrations, especially retiring President Harry S. Truman and incoming Dwight D. Eisenhower. Ill feeling was even worse when Franklin D. Roosevelt took over from Herbert Hoover.

Relations were somewhat more cordial when John F. Kennedy replaced Eisenhower. Even so there were no whole-salve Cabinet briefings and no briefings at all of the wives.

Last week, after the Nixon Cabinet wives spent nine hours being briefed regarding their new duties, they were tired. They were also late for a reception given at the State Department. Members of the Johnson administration waited a half hour for them. They were sympathetic, not impatient. They also looked happy at the prospect of getting out of government.

Remarkable Secretary of State Rusk as the Republican Cabinet members and wives showed up: "As the boys in the foxholes say, we sure are glad to see our replacements arrive."

Disappointed Nixon Friend

Most disappointed member of the Nixon entourage when the Cabinet choices were finally sorted out was Maurice Stans, who had his heart set on becoming Secretary of the Treasury.

Being confident he would get this post, Stans sold his apartment in New York. It had cost him $115,000, but when he put it up for sale he asked $200,000, not really expecting to get that much. In four days, however, he had sold it for $200,000.

More than any other one man, Stans had worked for Nixon's nomination and election. He raised the money for Nixon when he ran for governor of California in 1962. Then he passed the hat for Nixon's nomination this year. Finally he raised a large chunk of the money for the final election. Inasmuch as Stans had been Director of the Budget under Eisenhower, he knew government monetary problems well.

At the last minute, however, Nixon passed him up for Secretary of the Treasury, appointing banker David Kennedy instead. Nixon made Stans Secretary of Commerce but forgot to mention his name when he introduced the Cabinet on TV.

Last Minute Negro

It was as late as 4:30 p.m. on the afternoon that Nixon introduced his Cabinet that he finally asked Walter Washington to serve as mayor of Washington, D. C.

By that time Nixon was desperate to find a Negro to become part of his administration. The toughest problems Nixon faces involve race relations, yet he had no Negro in the Cabinet.

Furthermore, two Cabinet members are Mormons—Gov. Romney of Michigan and David Kennedy of Chicago—and Negroes feel that the Mormon faith discriminates against them. Romney was able to win the confidence of leading Negroes in Detroit, but Negroes in the rest of the country are still unhappy about Mormon religious creed, and Romney, as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, will need to get Negro cooperation for the important problems of the ghettos.

The reappointment of Washington had been delayed because of the bitter opposition of Gilbert Hahn, Republican chairman of the District of Columbia. Washington is one of the most popular and able Negroes in politics but happens to be a Democrat, and this made him unacceptable to the GOP chairman. Hahn not only wanted to appoint one of his own deserving Republicans as mayor but even called meetings of Republican businessmen and made impassioned speeches to them about crime in the streets in an attempt to enlist their help to pressure Nixon not to reappoint Washington.

However, as the time of his televised cabinet announcement approached, a desperate President-elect telephoned Mayor Washington to ask him to serve another term as mayor of Washington, D. C. He then announced this appointment ahead of all Cabinet introductions.

Note—Nixon should be warned that Hahn will now seek to sabotage the mayor by bypassing the White House and applying his pressure upon the District of Columbia committees on Capitol Hill.

Henry J. Taylor Says

See Big Expansion Next Year

Behind the scenes, President-elect Richard M. Nixon's economic people see much expansion ahead in 1969. And that's important news.

They look for a big bulge. But they also see deep challenges in this and are already preparing to meet them. Their great hope is that it will not be a roller-coaster year.

In common with most other specialists, they expect the biggest energy in the economy in 1969 to come from consumer spending. The nation's retailers' inventory ratio of goods on hand compared to their sales is the lowest since 1947.

Actually, there's a European touch in this buying suction. The history of Europe is the history of paper currencies. The fixed European consumer philosophy has been that prices are going up; buy today. The American philosophy has been to wait for high prices to come down. This Wait-for-better-prices has been a controlling (and generally leveling) characteristic in our economy.

But now, and increasingly, our public has become inflation-minded. The consumer has swung positively to the traditional European attitude. And, compounding this, more credit cards will be mailed out in 1969 (an estimated 150 million) than there are adults in our population. Even among banks, at least one out of seven will offer credit cards: "Come and get it." Installment credit, expanded by a record, seasonally adjusted $832 million in October alone. Meanwhile, the government's monetary policy regarding expansion is startlingly different from the Washington headlines. The truth has been buried, confused and grossly manipulated.

Throughout this year—and in 1967, too—government monetary policy has run contrary to the declared anti-inflationary objective of the tax surcharge.

Over the objections of courageous Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin, the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink increased the money supply so much that it shot up at a 9 per cent annual rate. This is more than double the 4 per cent rate of increase from 1964 to 1966.

A deficit is what a government has when it doesn't have as much as it had nothing. As a government continues to spend beyond its income and borrows more and more to pay its bills, its borrowings from banks create more and more credit, increase the money supply and help create inflation.

In June this year with the Federal debt at $326 billion the Washington Robin Hoods officially estimated that it would be up to $335 billion on October 15. They were wrong again. On October 15 it was $340 billion. It increased $14 billion in only four months.

As one result, the new Administration's people find that commercial bank loans and investments have zoomed at nearly twice the largest prior (1965) rate of increase.

Coupled with the consumer spending impact—and sparked by much the same buy-now reasons—company officials are thinking the way consumers are thinking. Capital spending for new plants and machinery is commonly regarded as a key to a job-giving future and, usually, as being the true core of the nation's economy.

You can judge the spending impact when you realize that U. S. Steel for example, has to have about $1.30 invested to achieve $1 in sales. A large, modern coal mine costs about $30 million. An oil refinery can easily cost $100 million. Oil exploration and drilling costs have gone up 500 per cent since the war. Yet one American concern must find two million barrels of new oil a day merely to keep up with sales. This worldwide exploration costs the company $1 million daily.

Industry has self-invested more than $200 billion in the past five years. Moreover, increased technology is unavoidable, bringing increased capital expenditures. So is research. Private U. S. Drug firms, for example, spend more than $250 million a year on research. As a result, about 60 per cent of the world's new drugs developed since the war have been developed in the United States.

Our 1969 growth looks like about $70 billion. Apparently private industry will put into new plants and equipment the equivalent of the nation's entire growth increment. Or, put another way, I have been in Canada recently. This $70 billion, alone, is $21 billion more than Canada's entire gross national product—the world's seventh nation in manufacturing and fifth in world trade.

Majority of Americans Expect Nixon to Be 'Good' President

PRINCETON, N.J., — "I've never been a Nixon fan myself, and I didn't vote for him," said a 58-year old executive from Great Neck, N.Y., "but I have to admit that he's doing a good job of preparing himself for the problems he will face as President."

This comment reflects the views of many Americans who have been favorably impressed by Mr. Nixon's actions and style since the election.

Three basic reasons are given: (1) Nixon's cabinet appointments have been good—he had done his best to get men of high calibre; (2) His relations with the Johnson Administration have been amicable; and (3) He is doing all he can to prepare himself for the problems ahead.

'Good' Chief Executive
These post-election first impressions of the President-elect under the belief on the part of a majority of Americans (57 per cent) that

Mr. Nixon will make a "good" or "great" President, as opposed to a "fair" or "poor" one.

About one person in three (34 per cent) predicts that Nixon will make a "fair" President, while 6 per cent say "poor." Six per cent of all adults interviewed use the term "great."

Plaudits From Opponents
Mr. Nixon, who won less than a majority of the vote on November 5 (43.4 per cent), has succeeded in winning the plaudits of many who voted for Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace in the election.

About a third of Humphrey voters (35 per cent) say Nixon will make a "good" President, while 38 per cent of Wallace voters offer this prediction.

Two out of every three Nixon voters (67 per cent) think Nixon will be a "good" President, and another 11 per cent say "great."

Details of Survey

The following question was asked in a survey conducted last week (Dec. 6-8), prior to Nixon's formal announcement of his cabinet Wednesday, but after some of his cabinet choices were known:

Just your impressions at this point... what kind of President do you think Richard Nixon will make—a great President, a good President, a fair President, or a poor President?

Here are the national results, based on interviews with 1558 adults in over 300 localities across the country, with the findings by region and by vote in the election:

	% Great	% Good	% Fair	% Poor	No Opinion
National	67	31	1	1	1

Nixon Fate Will Depend on Vietnam

Nixon's prime task in the months ahead will be to bring the Vietnam war to an end on reasonable terms. If he fails in this task, he may suffer the same popularity problems as Presidents Johnson and Truman, both of whom had to contend with a war in Southeast Asia.

President Truman took over the reins of office upon the death of FDR with an 87 per cent approval rating. At the end of his time in office, his rating was 31 per cent.

President Johnson started his period in office with a 79 per cent approval rating. His latest popularity score is 43 per cent.

Space Flights Are Giving Diplomats Very Bad Dreams

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Here's the picture:

Retro-rockets are fired, the capsule and its three occupants pulse blazing through the atmosphere after nine days in space. The big chute billows to slow descent to the earth's surface. Splashdown is perfect.

The commander opens the hatch and the crew peers out . . . at a crowd of animated yellow faces talking excitedly in words none of the three can understand. They have landed in the fish pond of the Peking city park.

Such a conclusion to a U.S. space shot is highly unlikely, but not impossible. Aiming for a landing spot on earth while traveling at 17,000 miles per hour might be compared to threading a sewing machine needle when it is running at full speed. The capsule, of course, has the advantage of electronic wizardry, but past flights have shown even that is not infallible.

A small task force is set up in the "crisis room" of the State Department for each space shot to prepare for such a possibility. A spacecraft downed anywhere but at the predetermined landing spot would be a suspenseful situation. Landing in a country with which this nation has no diplomatic relations could be downright sticky.

The Astronaut Assistance and Return Agreement, signed but not yet ratified by the United States, United Kingdom and Soviet Union, provides for international cooperation in the recovery and return of astronauts who make emergency landings. Unfortunately, many of the nations considered most hostile are not signatories to the treaty. Part of every pre-launch preparation by State Department officials is to contact certain neutral nations to act as intermediaries with the unfriendly in case of a landing within their borders.

I would guess that with few exceptions, the chances for cooperation and prompt return of the spacecraft and crew in an unintended landing would be excellent," said Donald Bowie, on loan to State from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and head of State's astronaut recovery task force.

"But there are a few countries," he added, "about which we can only say there is a big question as to what they would do."

Even if a crew was released there is a high probability that spacecraft technology would be compromised. NASA and State Department officials fear a hostile nation might take its time about turning loose a capsule.

The task force's obligations are not limited to preparing for a hostile landing, however. There are other matters of international diplomacy that have to be worked out before each launch.

Alternate recovery teams are spotted at a half-dozen points around the globe in case of a landing emergency, and to reach those points permission must be obtained for the planes and their recovery crews to fly over some countries not on ordinary flight patterns. Nations are also alerted that a space launch is upcoming and that in case of emergency the United States may be making special requests for permission to conduct search and rescue operations.

But these are more or less perfunctory diplomatic preparations for a launch. An impromptu search for a lost space capsule anywhere in the world is a bad dream of the task force.

Nixon to Face Early Battle Over Antiballistic Missile

By DAVID MURRAY
(Chicago Sun-Times Special)

WASHINGTON—The incoming Republican administration is certain to face an early battle with Democratic and Republican congressional moderates over the Antiballistic Missile System (ABM).

As the announcement came last week that an installation for Spartan long-range nuclear missiles was intended near Libertyville, Ill., all the indications here were that this and other similar announcements would form the framework for a new fight over the Sentinel ABM Defense System.

The system, which involves 15 or 20 missile sites and a like number of support installations, is price-tagged by the army at about $7 billion over the next 10 years. The major part of the cost will come in the next year or so.

But critics in Congress and elsewhere fear that the army is using the initial system as a camel's nose under the ABM tent.

They charge that what the Defense Department and the military hardware enthusiasts in Congress—mainly Southerners—really are after is to expand the system to one that may ultimately cost $100 billion.

Sentinel, as authorized by Congress, represents a "thin" ABM shield against a future Chinese Communist nuclear attack. But the army has more than tacitly admitted, in secret Congressional hearings and elsewhere, that the present system may be used as a basis for a "thick" shield against the Soviet Union.

In the House, formal, organized opposition to ABM—the whole system—is thus far relatively unformed, but there are potent Congressmen of both parties who are unhappy with it.

Two of them are from Illinois—Rep. Sidney R. Yates, a Democrat, and Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, a Republican. Also, there is Rep. John Conyers, a Negro Democrat from Detroit, who wants to fight the system not only in Detroit, where there is a site, but nationally.

Others are expected to join these leaders.

Yates has promised a floor fight if necessary to block siting and deployment of the missiles, and Rumsfeld, an early opponent of Sentinel, promises his own continued opposition.

But it is on the Senate side of the Capitol where the major battle is expected to take place when Congress is asked to approve in the next few months the selected sites.

Last fall, in closed session, Senate conservatives defeated attempts to block deployment of the missiles, but only after a bitter debate.

Portions of the secret session debate were printed in the Congressional Record, after being edited by SE, Richard Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

This "sanitized" account of the debate did not, for example, contain an acrimonious exchange between Russell, a champion of ABM, and most other military appropriations designed to pave the South in concrete, and Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), a foe of the system.

The Senate leaders of the battle against ABM are expected to be the same ones who fought it before—Senators Stuart Symington of Missouri, and Philip Hart of Michigan, both Democrats, and Senators John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Charles H. Percy of Illinois, both Republicans.

The fight against them, with

Vermont Fights With New York On Pollution

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — A federal Water Pollution Control Administration conference on Lake Champlain resumes in Boston today and Vermont officials are expected to take a hard line on seeking immediate action to clean up Ticonderoga Bay.

The federal agency held a hearing Nov. 13 in Burlington at the request of Gov. Philip H. Hoff to discuss steps to be taken to eliminate further pollution of the lake from the International Paper Co. plant at Ticonderoga, N.Y.

Attending today's meeting are representatives of Vermont and New York and the New England Interstate Water Pollution Control Commission.

Vermont Water Resources Commissioner Reinhold Thieme and William Roberts, director of water supply and pollution control, say they will ask the federal agency to accelerate plans to clean up sludge beds in Ticonderoga Bay created by waste discharges from the International Paper pulp processing facility.

The sludge beds were called a primary source of pollution in a preliminary survey taken by New York and federal water pollution control experts.

But landing in a hostile country is its nightmare.

Should it happen to Apollo 8 or any other mission, State realizes special diplomatic gymnastics may be required to get the astronauts home.

None of the Apollo 8 crew even speaks Chinese.

Supporting legions, is led by Russell, Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), and Sen. J. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.).

Critics of the ABM program cite, primarily, its cost as weighed against its potential effectiveness. In recent years, the army was naturally squeezed out of the navy's Polaris system, which used submarine-based nuclear missiles as a deterrent against a Soviet aggression. The army pushed hard for a land-based defensive system to supplement and replace the deterrent system.

The Johnson administration, particularly former Defense Sec. Robert S. McNamara, resisted the defensive system, but in September, 1967, a compromise was agreed to. President Johnson, largely for political reasons, acceded to pressure for Southern Democrats and the idea of the "thin" shield was born.

But McNamara, hoping to outmaneuver the Southerners, purposely broke security on the existence of what appeared to many familiar with defense technology to be very nearly an ultimate weapon against any defensive system.

This development, which the United States has perfected and which, it must be assumed, the Russians now have or will have shortly, is the Multiple Independently Targetable Re-Entry Vehicle—MIRV.

MIRV is a device which, mounted on an intercontinental missile permits the firing of a number of decoys and other "penetration aids" which can effectively fool defensive radar while the nuclear payload homes in on its target.

The issue, then, on Capitol Hill, boils down to this: Is it worth it to start spending billions now, at a time when urban programs urgently need money, on a system such as Sentinel which may be either ineffective or obsolete a few years from now?

In all of this, the great unknown is the attitude of the incoming Nixon administration. The Defense Secretary-designate, Melvin Laird, is both a fiscal conservative and an opponent of the Sentinel system.

Kissinger's Books Give Clue to Foreign Policy

By DICK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Henry A. Kissinger follows his own writings, his national security advice to Richard M. Nixon will stress conventional military preparedness over a nuclear-only deterrent, the yielding of some defense responsibilities to allies, and phase withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

When President-elect Nixon named Kissinger as his special assistant for national security affairs this month, the Harvard scholar refused to state his views on major foreign policy questions.

Saying he believes his new job is inconsistent with making public statements on substantive issues," he invited a questioning reporter to read his books.

Kissinger has written three books on government affairs, edited a fourth and contributed one chapter to a fifth, concentrating on nuclear strategy and the Atlantic Alliance. Since 1960 he has contributed 16 commentaries on foreign policy, many of them echoing or previewing his books, to a variety of magazines and journals.

While Kissinger has outlined his views in detail, Nixon avoided specifics during the campaign, and so their affiliation begins without major policy differences on the public record.

As special assistant, Kissinger will be in a position to strongly influence presidential thinking on foreign affairs but will not be tied to administrative chores as is the Secretary of State. McGee Bundy with President Kennedy and Walt Rostow with President Johnson both were influential in the job Kissinger is getting.

Despite Kissinger's refusal to make public statements, his latest views on Vietnam will become available later this week when the journal Foreign Affairs publishes an article on peace negotiations. Kissinger wrote it before his appointment by Nixon.

As a foreign policy adviser to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Kissinger was heavily involved in drafting the four-stage Vietnam peace plan unveiled during Rockefeller's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

That plan proposed a mutual pullback and later withdrawal of all outside military forces, internationally supervised elections in South Vietnam, and a reduction in the numbers of American forces in South Vietnam, even without North Viet-nam's cooperation in negotiations.

In August 1966, Kissinger wrote in Look magazine that "a purely military solution is impossible" in Vietnam, and said the primary goal of military operations should be the creation of secure areas—a sort of flexible enclave theory.

He suggested that political jockeying likely would occur if too many nations were bound up in negotiations, and said "it may be wiser to separate the issues into their component elements, each to be settled by the parties primarily involved. A larger conference could then work out guarantees for settlements already achieved in other forums."

Contending that "The war in Vietnam is a crucial test of American maturity," Kissinger wrote:

"We must recognize that to be on the defensive often forces us to be engaged in places chosen by opponents for their difficulty and ambiguity."

"We do not have the privilege of deciding to meet only those challenges that most flatter our moral preconceptions. If we cannot deal with political, economic and military problems as an integrated whole, we will not be able to deal with them individually."

LEONID I. BREZHNEV

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev celebrates his 62nd birthday today with all visible evidence indicating his leading position in the Kremlin is stronger than ever.

His jovial, confident mood in public and the implementation of his known views on Soviet policy give no hint that any serious opposition threatens his power.

The energetic general secretary of the Soviet Communist party also shows every sign of retaining the other two members of his ruling troika—Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny. Despite recurrent rumors to the contrary, the occupation of Czechoslovakia has not led to any apparent split among the top leaders.

All three sat on public display for two days last week at the Supreme Soviet — parliament-session, ignoring the speakers and chatting animatedly among themselves.

They looked like three old cronies with not care in the world. Brezhnev appeared to be telling a series of funny stories and at one point drew a sketch that had the others shaking with laughter.

Brezhnev seldom relaxes this much in public. His usual pose is one of intense seriousness and self-confidence. He walks and stands with his trim body erect and his chin raised. He is always well tailored and meticulously barbered.

His humble origins become obvious only when he speaks. The Russians are amused by the provincial, Ukrainian accent he has kept since boyhood.

Although he is a Russian, he was born in the Ukrainian village of Kamesnkoie, now Dneprodzerzhinsk, and grew up where the Ukrainian and Russian languages are mixed in conversation.

As a result, he pronounces the hard "G" like an "H", and the word "gorod", meaning city, comes out "hrod."

After starting life as a metal worker, he began his rise through the ranks of the Communist party. He was brought to Moscow in 1956.

Diplomats who have talked with him are highly impressed by his grasp of world politics. They agree that Brezhnev has some justification for the self-confidence he has developed in four years in power.

His call for a setup in spreading Communist dogma, enunciated at the April meeting of the party's Central Committee, is almost daily echoed by prominent artists and musicians the latest being composer Dmitri Shostakovich.

Brezhnev's belief that the country's enormous farm problems can be solved by increasing investment in agriculture is being carried out in the state plan for 1969.

At least in public statements, he fully supports the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

But the price he had to pay for that was six months' postponement of the world Communist conference — known to be his pet project for years.

Although there were reports that the tense negotiations with Czechoslovakia last summer gave him a mild heart attack this has never been confirmed and today he appears vigorous.

Memorial

In loving memory of my husband, Robert Winkler, who passed away two years ago today, December 19, 1968.

What I would give to see your smile,
And sit with you and talk awhile,
Day and night I think of you,
The things you used to say and do.

The blow was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with you, so kind and dear,
I wonder why you had to die,
Without a chance to say Good-bye.

Claim Formula Discovered For Release of Pueblo Crew

NEW YORK (AP) — A formula which might permit the early release of the 82 captive crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo appears to have been found in the secret talks between the United States and North Korea at Panmunjom. The New York Times said today.

The Seoul newspaper Kyunghyang Shinmoon reported that U.S. and North Korean representatives met at Panmunjom.

Agent's Death Was a Suicide, Says the Bureau

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI has officially listed as suicide the death of an agent whose body was found early Tuesday in a Justice Department courtyard.

The District of Columbia coroners office said the cause of death of special agent Thomas Elrod of Woodbridge, Va., was a fractured skull, but added that he was not at liberty to say whether the agent suffered a gunshot wound. There were indications that Elrod fell from an eighth-floor window in the department's complex in downtown Washington, a revolver was found near his body.

Norman Thomas Dies After Long Illness

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Norman Thomas, veteran leader of the American Socialist Party who ran for president six times without a prayer of winning, died today at a nursing home here at the age of 84 after a long illness.

Son and grandson of Calvinist ministers, Thomas was himself an ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church and spoke with moral authority that left its mark on three generations of Americans. He was the leading liberal of his time, and although he never won office he saw most of the goals he fought for written into legislation since the opening days of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

"Americans may never have accepted socialism under the banner of a political party, but it has gradually accepted the party's program," Thomas told United Press International on his 75th birthday. "I am not a disappointed man."

Thomas known as "the glorious dissenter," died at 10:10 a.m. at Hilaire Farms Nursing Home where he had been confined since suffering a slight stroke a year ago. On the occasion of his 84th birthday last month he told a reporter "I can't hear too well and I can't see too well but I'm not on the verge of dying."

He gave an interview then that proved his mind was clear as a bell. His final legacy to the nation was a new book—his 15th—been confined since suffering a slight stroke a year ago. On the early next year.

Nixon Leaves Pay Door Open

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President-elect Richard M. Nixon—all but promised a hefty pay raise—is reported to have said he didn't want it, but didn't turn it down.

The President's pay now is $100,000 a year. He also gets $50,000 expense allowance. A government pay commission has proposed the salary be hiked to $200,000.

Under the Constitution, a President's pay cannot be changed during his four-year term. So Republican congressional leaders told Nixon they expect President Johnson to recommend enactment of the pay boost—though not necessarily the full amount—as one of his last acts.

They said they look for Congress, which convenes Jan. 3, to rush it through before Jan. 20, Inauguration Day.

"How much are they recommending?" Nixon was said to have asked.

When told the commission's proposal was to double the pay, Nixon screwed up his face in surprise. "That's a lot of money," he was reported to have said. "I don't need it."

House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford explained to Nixon that some increase in the President's pay is almost necessary to accommodate other raises proposed by the commission for almost the whole top level of government, including members of Congress.

For House and Senate mem-outrageous. Others have pre-bers. It proposed a boost from dicted that unless Johnson trims $30,000 to $50,000 a year. Some it, the increase will be rejected members have called 'his by one house or the other.

Some Campaigns Misdirected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Which simply is not where the emphasis belongs. There are numerous public service campaigns that are potentially worthy but somehow become misdirected.

Such is the case of the Christmas toy safety campaign set up by the National Safety Council.

This campaign is directed at making toys safer for children, injure themselves assembling the toys is much higher than that of children who get hurt playing with them.

"You can't go to bed yet," a child's mother will say. "You've got to put that doll house together."

"Great!" the father exclaims. "There is nothing I would rather do right now than put a doll house together. Is our accident insurance paid up?"

"It's made out of cardboard, silly. I don't see how you can get hurt fitting together a few pieces of cardboard."

"Some of those pieces have sharp edges. You had better call the hospital and make certain the emergency room will be open all night."

"It was open last Christmas, wasn't it?"

"Yes, but they may not have anyone on duty who can give a blood transfusion."

Scenes like this could be avoided if the safety council would bring pressure on toy manufacturers to make all Christmas playthings out of foam rubber.

Thanks to some statistics compiled over a period of years, I have been able to draw up a probability chart listing the hazard factor of certain toys.

I offer it to the council for use in a campaign to make toys safer for adults.

Prehistoric to Apollo:

Moon Has Always Fascinated Man

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The moon, around which the Apollo 8 astronauts will fly, always has fascinated man in its travels across the sky as a natural satellite of the earth.

Prehistoric man looked up in the night sky and regarded the moon with great awe. Later, the moon became part of man's early theology, a role it retained until astronomers first peered through telescopes and recognized that goddess Luna was actually a celestial body like earth.

Intriguing Subject

Its status as a deity declined, but its nearness to earth made it an intriguing subject for extensive astronomical study.

The moon orbits earth on a near circular course. The closest approach is 221,443 miles and the farthest 252,710 miles.

Uniquely, the moon rotates on its axis in exactly the same period, 27 1/3 earth days, as it requires to revolve once around the earth. Both motions are in the same direction. As a result, the moon keeps the same surface toward the earth at all times, and a lunar day or night will be about 14 earth days long.

About 41 per cent of the moon's surface can be viewed all the time from earth. But while the rotation of the moon is regular, its speed in its orbit is not, since it moves more slowly at the high point than at the low point.

Consequently, some portions near the rim which are not normally visible will appear briefly. This phenomenon is called libration and by taking advantage of the librations, astronomers have succeeded in mapping approximately 59 per cent of the lunar surface from earth.

The other 41 per cent has never been seen, but has been photographed completely by unmanned lunar satellites. The Apollo 8 astronauts will be the first to view the hidden backside and will snap additional photos.

The moon has a diameter of 2,163 miles, compares with 7,918 miles for earth. Because of the small size, the surface gravity of the moon is about one-sixth that of earth. A 180-pound man thus would weigh only 30 pounds on the moon and could jump six times as high.

The rocket speed needed to blast away from the moon is 5,400 miles an hour, compared with 25,200 miles to escape from earth. Therefore, a large rocket is not needed to lift men off the moon.

The moon does not have any detectable water or atmosphere, so sound and other atmospheric-dependent phenomena such as wind, rain, lightning and haze do not exist. Because of a lack of atmosphere, the moon has extreme temperature variations—ranging from 215 degrees Fahrenheit in sunlight to 240 degrees below zero at night.

Seen through a telescope, lunar surface has not suffered earth's satellite presents a weird and startling landscape of vast plains, deep craters and jagged mountains.

Hope for Clues

Scientists hope that a study of the moon's geology will provide many clues to earth's history, because many believe the two bodies had the same origin. The absent.

Two Youths Injured In Route 375 Crash

WEST HURLEY — An 18-year-old New Jersey youth was injured critically, and a Kingston youth was less seriously hurt as the result of a one-car accident which occurred on Route 375 about one mile north of Route 28 at 12:15 a.m. today.

Kingston State Police said Joseph Stewart, of Stockholm, N. J., was a passenger in a car operated by Andrew J. Murphy, 4th, of 79 Lucas Avenue, Kingston. The vehicle was traveling south when the driver lost control. As the operator tried to correct the course of the vehicle it hit a tree, recrossed the highway and slammed into a utility pole.

Both youths were taken to Benedictine Hospital. Stewart suffered a compressed fracture of the skull, lacerations of the face and a fractured nose.

Saugerties LSD Case Postponed

SAUGERTIES — The cases of two of three youths charged with possession of a dangerous drug, called LSD, have been postponed until Jan. 14, by Saugerties Village Justice David Goble. The third defendant in the action, John Lusher, 20, known as "John The Baptist" in Woodstock, was sentenced to 180 days in the County Jail following a plea of guilty.

The remaining two, now free on $500 bail, were given the postponement Tuesday night at the request of their lawyers.

The three were apprehended by village police over a month ago.

Hobbits Trim Tree on Friday

Friday will be tree-trimming night at the Hobbit Coffeehouse, 73 Crown Street.

Anyone bringing something to decorate the tree Friday night, will be treated to a free cup of coffee. Decorations may range from the beautiful to the silly, but it is hoped that imagination will be the keynote of the finished product.

The Flash, Kingston's popular acid-blue group, will provide music for dancing and listening. A festive holiday light show will be featured also.

Two Men Hurt

HIGHLAND — Two men were injured Wednesday when their cars collided on Church Street in this community. They were taken to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie for treatment.

State Police Sgt. Stanley Kowalik said Howard Perkins, 53, was driving north and Cosmo Cuscito, 57, also of this village, was turning south when his car skidded and the vehicles collided. A report of Trooper G. P. Rebhan noted that Perkins sustained bruises and Cuscito mouth and bruises.

Meningitis, Hepatitis at Paltz

By JEAN F. DOLAN

NEW PALTZ — One case of meningitis and one case of hepatitis discovered over the past weekend at State University College, New Paltz, were a "consideration" but not the primary reason for cancellation of classes at noon yesterday.

Donald Kent, public relations director at the college, said this morning that the two students have been hospitalized and "there is no indication of any further outbreak of either illness." All students who were in contact with the two were given inoculations immediately after the discovery was made.

The decision to cancel classes came after an outbreak of influenza-type illness thought to be of the Hong Kong variety. During the week between 1,000 and 1,500 students were unable to report to classes due to the illness. More than 500 persons in a dormitory were felled by the symptoms of high fever, aches and respiratory discomfort.

Classes were canceled at the New Paltz campus at noon yesterday after study of the matter by students, faculty and administration. Christmas vacation had been slated to start on Friday.

In closing early for the holiday recess, New Paltz joined numerous other colleges and at numerous private colleges. At Albany, the Hong Kong outbreak of flu, Hong Kong or flu virus was identified in six otherwise, caused early closings at SUNY campuses at Binghamton, Albany, Stony Brook, Cortland, Genesee and piracy illness.

RED HOOK — At Tuesday's regular monthly meeting, six young men added their names to the Red Hook Jaycee roster. John Ahlf, Al Monarchi, Ed Nickerson, Bob Ogden, Hans Pirner and Dick Ryden joined 20 other young men of Red Hook to bring the membership of the new organization to a level which is required for formal affiliation with the New York State and United Jaycee organizations.

Local President Jerry Motala intends to file the application with national director Gil Raushbaum of Newburgh by Dec. 20.

Guest speaker was Tom McLeod of Pawling. Other guests were Skip Reed and Otto Shustig also from Pawling; District II President from Woodstock, Paul DeLisio; State Extension Chairman from Woodstock, John Spratt; Saugerties Jaycees George Pardonner (President) and Ralph Childers.

Pin Hopes on Santa

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — "We're pinning our hopes of goal attainment on Santa Claus," read a statement prepared by the chairman of the Broome County United Fund.

Carl Olsen was all set to read the statement to fund directors as they discussed the $13,000 deficit the fund faced as the end of the year neared.

Before Olsen could deliver the statement, a package containing $15,000 in stocks arrived from an anonymous couple.

"Santa came early!" said a fund spokesman.

NEW YORK (AP) — Unions that are afraid of job losses because of automation are "sabotaging" the Long Island Rail Road, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has charged.

The governor was asked at a news conference Wednesday whether a new schedule introduced in November by the commuter line would work with existing equipment.

"It would if it weren't being sabotaged," he replied.

Rockefeller said he understood why unions didn't want "surplus employees" to lose their jobs because of automation.

"And I don't blame them for being concerned," he said.

"But," added, "the road has taken the position that the staff will be reduced by attrition and no one will lose his job."

The governor urged labor to go along with the LIRR's modernization plans because "the interest of the union is to move with the times."

Do It Yourself, Russian Stand After Invasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. experts say the Czech experience will strengthen the position of Kremlin dissidents who favor reducing the role of the Warsaw Pact nations in Central Europe.

Until the move toward political liberalism by the Prague government and the resulting Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia, the prevailing policy in Moscow was to place a great deal of reliance on Warsaw Pact armies in the upkeep of the Soviet defense in Central Europe.

However, the division of the Czech government has put in a better position those Soviet leaders who have argued since the early 1960s against depending on Eastern European allies in defending that part of the world, the U.S. experts say.

"If the Czechs have gone sour so could others," one American expert said.

If Moscow does decide to strengthen its military posture in Central Europe, it will force an increase in the Soviet defense budget, one U.S. Kremlinologist said.

This might drain money from other Russian military programs and such civilian sectors as agriculture where the Soviet government has long promised improvements.

The Kremlinologists say any such policy shift would eventually show up in the Russian "order of battle" in Central Europe and might be signaled by changes in the level of factory output.

The Czech invasion already is believed to have placed some strain on the Soviet military budget because it required the Russians to mobilize some reservists and undertake unexpected major troop movements.

The Soviet defense budget announced last week was 17.7 billion rubles. At the official exchange rate a ruble is worth $1.11.

American experts say that the announced figure is misleading because much of the Soviet military spending is disguised in such other categories as science and industry. They estimate the real figure spent on the military in the Soviet Union last year was really closer to $50 billion.

The announced defense figures, which represents on its face only a mild increase over last year, is looked on by U.S. officials as a message to the West that Moscow is not gearing up for any major increase in arms spending.

And this message, the experts said, is believed designed to avoid propelling NATO into a major effort at boosting the Atlantic alliance's force levels.

What Russia is interested in now is getting NATO back on the track it was on before the invasion of Czechoslovakia—a track that seemed to be leading toward a weakening of the alliance, one authority said.

Collision Claims Life

RANDOLPH, N.Y. (AP) — A two-car collision in this village 60 miles southwest of Rochester Wednesday claimed the life of Miss Susan LeBaron, 20, of nearby Kennedy.

Police said the cars hit head-on on West Main Street extension.

Miss LeBaron lived on Waterboro Hill Road.

Flu May Be Blessing in Disguise; Could Reduce the Holiday Traffic

The nation's roads, rails and skies are getting more crowded every day as Christmas approaches and thousands of Americans head for home or vacation spots. There are indications, however, that the outbreak of Hong Kong flu may ease travel congestion.

An Associated Press survey showed airlines, bus companies and railroads in most major cities expect record crowds during the Christmas season.

In several areas, however, spokesmen for travel companies said the passenger load has been spread out somewhat because of early school and college closings due to flu.

"We're all getting a break with the flu epidemic," said Virginia McKibben, assistant regional manager of Greyhound Bus Co. in Washington. McKibben said the flu is "scattering the travel over an extended period."

Fear Jan. 5

He expects the congestion to get worse, however. "The day we're all dreading is the Sunday after New Year's when everybody is going to be returning at the same time," McKibben said. "Lord help us. It is going to be something out of this world."

In most cities, the question is not whether there will be record holiday crowds, but simply how high the records will be.

An Eastern Airlines spokesman in Philadelphia said the carrier expected a 60 per cent increase this year in travel to Florida and Puerto Rico. United Airlines said it has added 14 extra sections on flights from Philadelphia, expecting 33 per cent more passengers than usual.

Harry K. Malone, Jr., assistant manager of the Atlanta Airport, said he expected extreme congestion, but did not know whether the crowds would be worse than last year.

Malone said much of the crush was due to military personnel from nearby Fort Benning and other installations.

The air traffic controllers—who staged a "follow-the-book" campaign and snarled travel last summer—apparently do not plan to resume their slowdown. A spokesman for the Air Transport Association said in-

Chicago that airlines in the Windy City expect no unforeseen delays providing the weather is good. Dan Vucurevich, the tower chief at O'Hare International Airport, said he would have an "adequate" staff on hand to handle peak traffic, even though several controllers have the flu.

Trains Up

Washington—A Federal Aviation Agency spokesman said the capital's worst traffic problems were usually in summer and added, "It would surprise me if Christmas was as bad as this summer." He said traffic problems normally arising at Thanksgiving "just didn't materialize" this year. A Penn Central spokesman predicted a 20 per cent increase in the number of passengers traveling during the holiday season.

Boston—Travel was expected to peak Friday and American Airlines said it expected 5,000 passengers on outbound Boston flights Dec. 20—a record for a single day. Northeast Airlines said the heaviest bookings on its Florida flights are over the coming weekend.

Los Angeles—T.W. Morgan, the Greyhound terminal supervisor, said, "We're going to have a hell of a weekend. . . Every employee who is available and healthy will be working. . . A spokesman for Los Angeles International Airport said, "Every holiday has exceeded the coming year. We're anticipating considerably more traffic this year. . ."

Attack Clifford for Minimizing Political Settlement in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic member of the House Armed Services Committee attacked Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford on Wednesday for suggesting that a military understanding with North Vietnam could precede a political settlement in the war-torn country.

Get Troops Out

Clifford said he believes North Vietnam is ready to reach an understanding with the United States that could result in the withdrawal of troops and a substantial drop in the fighting. Then, he said, talks could begin about a political settlement.

Stratton asked a news conference: "Does any realistic or responsible person really think that if all American troops are removed from Vietnam before any firm agreement on the political future of South Vietnam has been reached, before any arrangement of the means of enforcing that agreement has been arrived at and even before the combat capability of the Vietnamese armed forces to handle outside aggression has been fully assured, we can really expect the Communists to leave South Vietnam alone and untouched?"

Stratton said he was "deeply shocked and appalled" by Clifford's comments in a radio-television interview Sunday.

Clifford, appearing on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Face the Nation," disagreed with suggestions that military and political agreement on Vietnam must be reached simultaneously.

Speaks of Tet

"If a major military attack on South Vietnam's largest and capital city can be launched without any impact on the course of the Paris talks, then how meaningful are the concessions or understandings we received in return for our bombing halt?" Stratton asked.

"If all we want to do is withdraw our forces as quickly as possible, no matter what else happens in South Vietnam, they don't need any peace talks at all," he said.

Stratton said he could appreciate "Clifford's impatience at the slow pace of negotiations in Paris and I can understand his personal desire to wrap up some kind of settlement prior to Jan. 20."

The present administration leaves office on that date.

"Anyone who has ever known anything about Vietnam has known that any peace talks would be a slow and complicated, frustrating experience," he said. "But I never expected that the first victim of these frustrations would be the secretary of defense himself."

FBI Arrests 30 in Scheme For Deferments in Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI announced the arrest Wednesday of 30 persons in connection with what was described as a scheme to obtain illegal draft deferments for young men.

The 30 arrests were made in the Chicago area and five others are still being sought, according to a joint announcement by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

Hoover said the alleged scheme involved three full-time employees of the Illinois National Guard.

He said they acquired "spurious documents" which were submitted to local draft boards showing that a number of draft eligible young men were members of the National Guard, when in fact they were not.

The fictitious documents resulted in the registrants being granted illegal deferments, Hoover said.

Hoover said the arrests this morning were the result of an extensive FBI investigation.

He said eight of those arrested were indicted by a federal grand jury in Chicago Tuesday. The remaining 27 were charged in warrants sworn by FBI agents in Chicago Tuesday afternoon.

YATES, N.Y. (AP) — A farmer was killed Wednesday in this Orleans County town near Lake Ontario when the tractor he was using to clean out the basement of a barn backed over an eight-foot creek bank and fell on top of him.

Hog Farm Family Enjoys the Communal Life

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — To D'Jinn Fleishman, the Hog Farm and Friends in Open Celebration is a loving family of 4 adults, six children and a pig. The family is a communal group that has been traveling several old school buses brightly painted in abstract designs.

"People give us strange looks when we pull into town, but afterwards they are friendly," said D'Jinn, who pronounces her name "Jean." She is a pretty, 30-year-old brunette from Boston. The name of the group came from a farm that some of the family's members operated in Sunland, Calif., near Los Angeles. Last spring they gave up the farm and began traveling east. "It has been a hard life in a way, but it has its rewards," D'Jinn said. Two babies have been born during the trip, one "in a meadow in New Mexico," and the other near Annandale, Minn. D'Jinn's husband, Peter, served as midwife for the second birth. D'Jinn said the group has supported itself along the way by producing happenings or spontaneous demonstrations, usually at college campuses. The events are free, but donations are accepted.

"The Hog Farm is very religious, not orthodox perhaps, with a mission to bring all kinds of people together without money," she said. The group includes students, teachers, computer specialists, artists, and filmmakers ranging in age from 18 to 35. Several couples brought their children.

There is no set schedule each day, she said. They may be traveling, or producing a show, or preparing and cleaning up after a happening. Their equipment includes two geodesic domes and a 60-foot, plastic hot dog.

The group stopped in Binghamton last week after their buses broke down in nearby Montrose, Pa. D'Jinn and four others lingered in the city to await the release of two companions from a jail in Susquehanna, Pa., where they were taken on drug charges. They are staying here at the home of Harry Thor, pastor of the Unitarian - Universalist Church in Binghamton.

D'Jinn said most of the parents of the family members know about the communal group, and some approve of it. She refused to give the name of her parents, but she said they "like the Hog Farm family." The group may settle down on a farm someday, D'Jinn said.

Says Area Is 'Draggin Heels' on HUD Programs

"Kingston and Ulster County is dragging its heels on the HUD program," said John Petricco, assistant to the Assistant State Director of FHA to a group of local realtors this week at a brunch at First Federal Savings and Loan of Kingston.

The bank, first financial institution in the area to spearhead the inauguration of the local Housing and Urban Development Program, sponsored the coffee round table discussions to facilitate the implementation of the recently enacted interest rate subsidy programs for home ownership and rental housing. Urging the guest realtors to acquaint themselves with the "new market and new target on which to set their sights so the man of low and/or average income can become a homeowner," the FHA official urged cooperation. Stating that "the First Federal Savings and Loan Association deserves the praise of the community for supporting HUD in all phases of financing."

he urged realtors present to "follow the example of the bank and assume your rightful responsibility in promoting this program."

'Dutchess Did It'

"Dutchess County did it," he stated, continuing to inquire "so why can't it get off the ground in Kingston and Ulster County?" Listing Albany as well as many other upstate localities which have been successful in their inauguration of HUD he was emphatic in declaring that "the FHA will cut all and any red tape necessary . . . up to the ceiling limit where land costs are higher . . . do all possible to work with you so that home ownership and rental housing are within the reach of those in lower income brackets." "That is the new name of the game," stated Petricco.

He explained how HUD will pay part of the eligible family's mortgage interest payment. The family will pay at least 20 per cent of its monthly income toward the principal, interest of at least one per cent, taxes, hazard insurance and the FHA mortgage insurance premium. The difference between the interest paid by the family and the market rate of interest is made by the HUD payment. To achieve this goal of "a decent home and suitable living environment for every American family within the next decade more than $80 billion has been earmarked for cost," the Capitol

City official told his First Federal Savings and Loan audience.

Mention Garraghan

More than 24 million homes will be all or in part subsidized by FHA while two million other dwellings will be rehabilitated. "Some of these should be in Ulster County and the City of Kingston," he continued, after asking "why not . . . what are your builders waiting for . . . your Mayor Garraghan is for the aiding of this great experiment in social-economic-housing planning . . . so what are your builders waiting for . . . why aren't you realtors promoting this potential . . . is Ulster County asleep at the switch?" he inquired.

William Paulus, mortgage officer of the bank, outlined the new "Act of God" insurance programs that are added incentives of the HUD package detailing the flood, hurricane and disaster insurance coverage homeowners may obtain.

8 Paterson Police on Trial For Violating Negro Rights

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Eight policemen have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to violate and violation of civil rights of Negro residents during racial disorders last summer.

The indictment said the policemen assaulted one Negro, and broke windows of several business establishments operated by Negroes.

U.S. Atty. David Satz Jr. of New Jersey said the policemen were charged with violating a 1872 Civil Rights Act, the first such indictments against policemen brought in the state.

"Enough people came forward immediately with enough evidence to warrant presentation to the grand jury," Satz said.

Woman Killed
DANVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — A 78-year-old woman was killed Wednesday night when she was hit by an automobile as she walked across Perine Street.

Police identified her as Mrs. Edna White of this village 40 miles south of Rochester.

She lived on RFD 1.

A coalition of civil rights groups charged that the police department "rioted against the citizens, uncontrolled by their own authorities," while suppressing the disorders.

Paterson, which has a population of 150,000 of which about 40,000 are Puerto Ricans and 20,000 Negroes, was hit by sporadic disorders early in July.

The civil rights coalition claimed that at one point during the disturbances that included firebombing and rock throwing by bands of Puerto Ricans, police attacks against Spanish-speaking citizens were so intense that "some of the innocent and frightened victims telephoned the governor of Puerto Rico for rescue."

The Civil Rights Act the policemen are accused of violating forbids "depriving of any rights, privileges or immunities secured by or protected by the Constitution or laws of the United States" to any citizen because of his race or color.

A spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office said the policemen will not be arrested but will receive notices of the indictment. He said the arraignment has been scheduled for Jan. 3.

The maximum penalty for each count of the six-count indictment is one year in prison and a $1,000 fine. Not all the policemen are mentioned in every count.

Jaycee Annual Outstanding Citizen Contest

WOODSTOCK The Woodstock Jaycees have announced plans for the annual "outstanding citizens award" to be presented to an individual of the Ontario area who, through outstanding achievement, has benefitted the community.

Woodstock Jaycee president, Ralph Perry emphasized that there are no restrictions on applicants other than that they live in the area and that their service to the community be particularly noteworthy.

Carl Markle, chairman of the award event, encourages everyone in the community to submit applications for those individuals whom they feel should be considered for the award.

The selection committee will review the applications and make the selections based on information submitted.

The individual selected will receive his award at a banquet held in his honor in mid-February. Questions may be directed to Markle or Perry.

The Beaches and Bikinis Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hundreds of students and teachers looking forward to golden Puerto Rican beaches and bikini-clad beauties will have to go back to dreams of sugarplums this Christmas because of "one of the most vicious charter flight frauds" in years, Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz announced Tuesday.

In papers on file in New York County Supreme Court, Lefkowitz charged that a self-styled Columbia and Oxford University graduate sold packaged vacations on a non-existent airline and with phantom reservations in San Juan's resort hotels.

Paul T. Douglas of Manhattan, charged Lefkowitz, received $85 each from hundreds of students and teachers on the promise they would depart from Kennedy Airport via "Sperry of Texas" airlines this coming weekend.

According to Asst. Atty. Gen. Stephen Mindell, the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Authority have never heard of that particular airline. The flight number assigned to the package vacation does not apply to any scheduled flight.

thers. He is pastor of the Church of the Transfiguration in Chinatown, New York City.

Warden Harold W. Follette invited 42 relatives of the inmates to a noon luncheon in the prison cafeteria. He said the family attendance at the rites and the noon luncheon was being allowed for the first time at Green Haven Prison by State Commissioner Paul D. McGinnis, in an effort to stimulate good family relationships.

Father Edward J. Donovan, Catholic chaplain at Green Haven, located in Dutchess County, made arrangements with prison authorities for inmates and their families. An honor guard of six correction officers was a part of the procession from the prison into the modern chapel, St. Paul's, which was built by the inmates themselves.

Over a dozen clergymen from the Dutchess County area and New York City assisted the Bishop in the Confirmation rites. R. E. Rusotto, a member of the prison staff, was sponsor for the inmates receiving the sacrament.

Fish Replacing Joe Po'keepsie Office Swap

POUGHKEEPSIE—To assure a smooth transition of service for the people of Dutchess County, Congressman-elect Hamilton Fish Jr. today announced he has taken over the Poughkeepsie district office of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

"Congressman Resnick is moving out and we are moving in. The address will be the same, 70 Market Street, Poughkeepsie, and the phone remains the same," the Congressman-elect announced.

The office switch took place Saturday as Congressman Resnick officially closed his office and Congressman-elect Fish took possession of the premises. "Although there is no restriction on where a congressman may locate his district office," Fish said, "as the public has become used to their Congressional Office being at 70 Market Street, I felt it would be of service to them to have it remain at the same location."

Fish also pointed out that he personally has some old ties with the office, as it was from there he managed the Dutchess County Keating campaign in 1964.

The office will be repainted and redecorated during the next week.

"As I understand it, Congressman Resnick traditionally closed the office during the holiday season. The closing for repainting will take place during this period when the office is usually closed anyhow," Fish said.

Fish stated that he had attempted to make the same type of smooth change in Kingston, but "unfortunately, the office space of Congressman Resnick had already been rented to another person. I am therefore looking for suitable offices in Ulster County."

Newly elected Republican Assemblyman Emeel S. Betros will share the Poughkeepsie office space with Congressman Fish in fulfillment of a campaign pledge made by the two newly elected legislators.

Confirmation

Bishop John W. Comber of New York City, receiving assistance from clergymen and inmates as altar boys, confirms one of the 33 inmates at Green Haven Prison at Stormville, Dutchess County. Warden Harold W. Follette invited the 42 relatives of the inmates to a noon luncheon in the prison cafeteria following the colorful ceremony. Inmates spent approximately six months preparing for the confirmation rites.

GREECE, N.Y. (AP) — Carol Brown, 19, of Greece, was killed shortly after midnight today in a two-car collision at the intersection of McGuire Road and Dewey Avenue in this Rochester suburb. Her address was 61 Wyndover Rd.

Paltz Road Issue— Views May Collide

By CHARLES BERMPOL

NEW PALTZ — This town's Jan. 15 "public forum" on the Fulton Road extension plan promises to be controversially heated as two groups of Northside residents appear to be headed towards a collision on the issue.

The group that first submitted a petition to the Town Board requesting the extension of Fulton to Harrington Street want the new road primarily because they want an open thoroughfare west to Prospect Street.

This would give easier accessibility to the main business section of the village and to Route 32.

As it stands now, the northeast residents of Fulton, Millbrook and Old Mill Roads must travel south down Duzine Road to Route 299, or Main Street, where they meet the major bulk of the east-west traffic going in and out of the village.

Besides the fact that both Millbrook and Old Mill are dead-end roadways, these northeast residents feel even more "boxed in," in the words of one homeowner here, when there is a traffic tieup on 299.

At least three big tieups occurred this year when the newly-installed traffic lights at Main and North and South Chestnut Streets failed to function properly and when New Paltz State University College freshmen caused a major jam as the arrived for indoctrination seminars in September.

The second group of northwest residents appear absolutely against the proposal and it was primarily these people who signed a petition against the extension plan.

Major Objection

The major objection here centers around the idea that Fulton Road would become a main artery should the plan be put into effect.

Another objection seems to be mainly philosophical and conservatively oriented, that is, that the town should not go into the road building business.

The idea here is that homeowners should themselves have the road built through private contractors.

The strength of this point rests on the idea that if the town were to construct such a road, even if it did send the work out to bid, it would be leaving itself wide open for any other group of residents who would also want a more easily accessible link to the business section and the major highways.

The weakness of the argument exists in the fact that the town has already, even in a limited way, gone into the road building business when it con-

Village Could Extend Road in 1969: DuBois

NEW PALTZ — While the Town Board will hold a "public forum" in January on the extension of Fulton Road, the village mayor recently indicated that Fulton Road would be extended to the village side of the thoroughfare.

Mayor Henry W. DuBois claimed that the village could begin extending the road between Prospect and Mulberry Streets during early 1969.

Village Attorney William Gruner said that a study on gaining title to property through which the road will pass is in its "preliminary stages."

This would mean that northwest Fulton Road residents would have a clear thoroughfare to Route 32.

Mulberry Street intersects the highway.

structed a half-mile thoroughfare to the sanitary landfill site.

The point that carries at least the most emotional weight, however, is the one that suggests that Fulton Road would become a truck, even a bus route, and that automobile owners would be using it as an expressway.

Connecting Argument

A connecting argument has it that the extension scheme, once adopted, would "snowball," and that it could eventually lead to the further expanding of the road from Prospect to Route 32.

This, in turn, lead some to believe that what the "road extenders" eventually want is one long link from North Putt Corners Road, past the Simmons Plaza shopping center, into Fulton, and into Route 32, thus avoiding all the congestion of Main Street.

Perhaps the strongest argument on the part of those who want the extension from Fulton at Millbrook Road to Harrington Street rests in the town growth factor.

At the last Town Board meeting, Supervisor Anthony Moriello pointed out that the last unofficial census showed the town having a population of a little over 9,000.

The 1970 census, Moriello said, would probably boost New Paltz into first class township status with a 10,000-plus population.

Tied to College

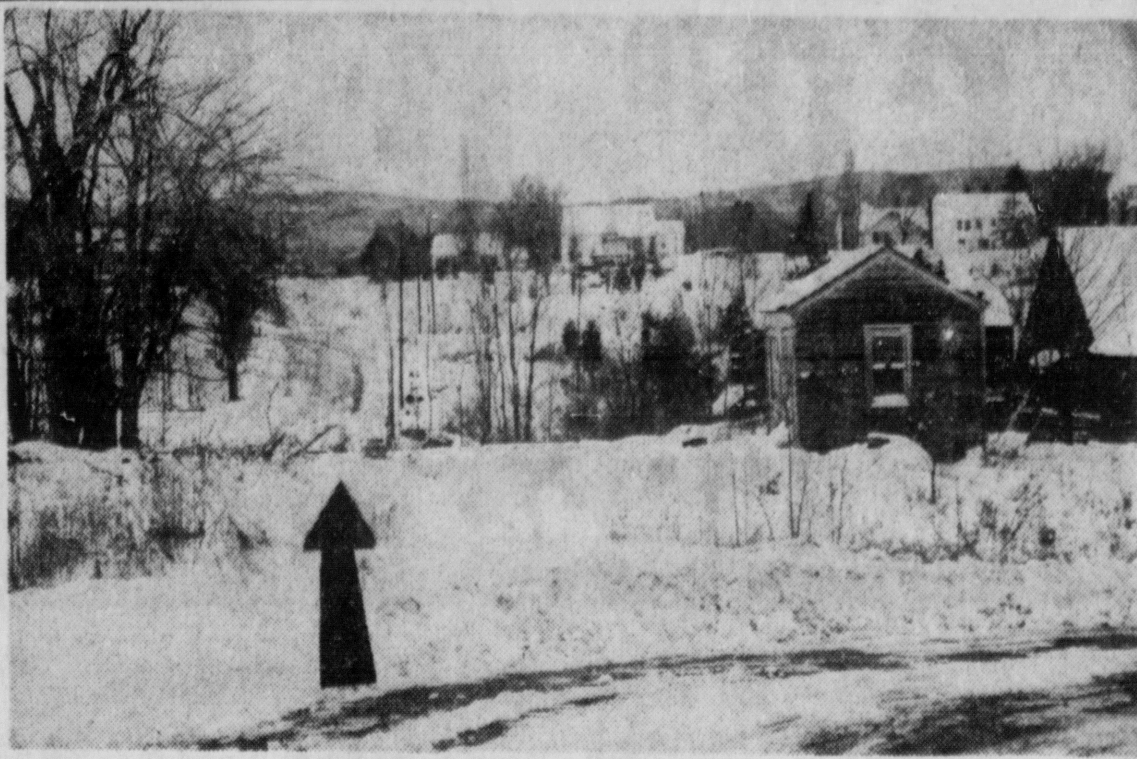

Part of this growth must be attributed to the rapid enrollment increase of the State University College.

The reasoning that will be employed here is that another main street will eventually have to be built to handle the increased traffic loads.

If the area residents who will be affected by the proposed extension were to vote on the issue now, those against the proposal would probably win hands down.

There are two reasons for this: one, with the major portion of the opposition coming from the northwest section of Fulton Road, the overwhelming weight of numbers would carry the day in that there are more residents in this area, and, two, there are at least two members of the Town Board who are, at this time, opposed to the plan.

It is the Town Board which must weigh the arguments and give a final verdict on the plan.

Another factor to be considered is, of course, the cost of the proposed extension. Should the town highway department construct the road, the cost would be held to a minimum, but this would mean that the department would be kept from performing other important duties.

If it were to be sent out to private contractors, the town would have to pay the costs of the lowest responsible bidder, and those who want the road will have to supply estimates.

VINCENT G. SHERIDAN

Quenton Williams, president of the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers, has announced that Vincent G. Sheridan, realtor with offices at 293 Wall Street, has been awarded the professional designation of Accredited Farm and Land Broker.

This professional designation indicates that Sheridan has been favorably recommended as to his reputation, moral character, integrity, sincerity of purpose and quantity of experience.

Also, he has received a satisfactory grade on a written examination set up by an examining committee of the Institute based on general farm and land brokerage, farm and land economics and phraseology and legal definitions.

Raichle Scores UR Demolition In Uptown Area

Legislator Clarence C. Raichle, R-Kingston today criticized the timing of the Uptown Urban Renewal demolition which has placed a blight on the Christmas atmosphere that usually prevails in the Uptown area.

Raichle said the razing of the buildings could have waited until the early part of 1969. The Kingston legislator said the situation now is the chaos of having demolition work and buildup of traffic in the Uptown area during the holiday season. He said after the building is hacked down by a large boom, the debris is piled in heaps and carted away. A lot of this rubble may be around until after the holidays, he added.

Instead of the residents being in a festive mood for holiday shopping, all they see is the destruction of buildings and the hauling of debris which is thoroughly inconsistent with the holiday season, the legislator said.

While on the subject of holiday traffic Uptown, Raichle said, a traffic survey should be taken at Washington Avenue and Plaza Road, the entrance to Kingston Shopping plaza. He said many motorists coming from all directions at this point do not know who has the right of way and some sort of traffic control signal should be installed before a serious mishap occurs.

Drivers Summoned

Kenneth W. Bender, 31, of Stony Run Apartments, Kingston, was summoned by police Wednesday to appear before City Judge Hubert A. Richter on charges of failure to produce a driver's license, and operating a motor vehicle without a license. Chrystal A. Wolf, 24, of 115 Hone Street, was cited for operating an unregistered motor vehicle, and John N. Fischer, 25, of Hopewell Junction, was summoned for the same violation.

Columbia Has New Trainer For Flyers

Inclement weather and nightfall will not be deterrents to those learning to fly at Richmor Aviation, Inc., fixed base operator, Columbia County Airport. The flight school has ordered a new GAT-1 (General Aviation Trainer) ground trainer which will permit a large portion of its flight training to be done indoors.

The new GAT-1 trainer will be one of the first put into use in this part of the country. It is built by General Precision Systems, Inc., Link Group, pioneer and leading producer of flight simulators and training devices.

The GAT-1 is designed to develop the skills required of pilots for both visual and instrument flying. Introduced a little more than a year ago, the GAT-1 has become the center of interest in schools, colleges, the flight training circles. It is described as a "major break through" in flight training. Aerospace technology has brought about the development of this solid-state micro-circuit computerized trainer.

The trainer is ideal for initial instruction in that the realism of flight stimulates the student to respond as he would in actual flight. The GAT-1 will enable the Richmor Aviation flight instructors to teach all of the basics of piloting techniques and aircraft control under conditions that are most conducive to learning. Student anxiety, the greatest deterrent to the learning situation, is eliminated. Yet, the student sees, feels and hears what it's like to fly an airplane.

For the advance pilots and students, the GAT-1 will provide instruction in radio navigation, communications, solo instrument practice, and instrument approaches including ILS/LOC/GS, VOR, ADF and marker beacons.

Richmor Aviation expects delivery of the GAT-1 the first week in January. At that time an open house will be held in order that the public may view and try the GAT-1.

Woodstock Library Book Sale Succeeds

Members of the Woodstock Library browsed, sipped coffee served by Carolyn Wilson, president, and Nancy Lyon, a trustee, and bought a number of books at the special Book Sale held at the library recently. It was the first such occasion and took place upstairs at the library which was provided during last year's extensive rebuilding.

Among the library's recent acquisitions are such bestsellers as "The Salzburg Connection" by Helen MacInnes, "Preserve and Protect" by Allen Drury, "A Small Town in Germany" by Le Carre, "The First Circle" by Solzhenitsyn, "Anti-Memoirs" by Andre Malraux, "Of Diamonds and Diplomats" by Letitia Baldrige, "The Arms of Krupp" by William Manchester. Now available for circulation is the new one-volume reprint of "Picturesque Ulster" by Richard de Lissier which was originally published over a period of years in eight separate sections. Alf Evers, in his foreword to the new issue, says: "Nothing else ever written about Ulster County has anything like the transporting power of 'Picturesque Ulster' to carry one to earlier days in Woodstock, Saugerties, Kingston, and other local historic sites.

Beef is America's number one meat choice—we will have eaten on the average about 109 pounds per person this year, more than all the rest of the red meats combined. When supplies of beef are up, as they are now, this is good news for shoppers, says Louise K. Breitling, Extension Home Economist. The amount of beef to be produced this winter is forecast as 7 to 10 per cent greater than a year ago. So expect beef prices to be reasonable with specials widespread for some months to come.

Beef roasts are popular during cold winter months, and shoppers have numerous choices. Two outstanding selections are beef rib roasts and chuck blade roasts. The rib roast is unexcelled for tenderness and flavor. It is easy to cook, carve, and serve, and is often the favorite oven roast for company meals. The blade is often the favorite oven roast for company meals. The blade chuck roast is more economical and has a full beef flavor. When of the top grades, the chuck blade cut can be oven roasted, although it has several muscles that vary in tenderness.

The roast comes from the central part of the beef carcass, between the shoulder and loin. Because the roast contains a section of the backbone and the curved rib bones, it will stand alone and form its own roasting rack. The most desirable part, the rib eye, is the major muscle that makes up only about a fifth of the cut.

One decision to make when buying a rib roast is whether to buy the 10-inch cut, the full roast, or the 7-inch cut that has the short ribs removed. The short rib section is less tender than the rib eye section and contains considerable fat and bone in proportion to lean meat. The choice may be more a matter of the kind of roast you want than cost—the 7-inch cut costs more per pound than the 10-inch, and so there may be little difference in the overall, relative price of meat from the two cuts. On the other hand, short ribs should be braised rather than roasted, and so you may prefer to purchase this part separately or to have the butcher remove it from the 10-inch cut for use at a meal other than the one featuring the oven roast.

A standing rib roast is usually a better buy than a rolled rib roast for a related reason. The boned, rolled rib roast may contain the less tender short rib section, rather than the rib eye alone. Too, the rolled ribs are hard to carve because of the skewers or string and the lack of bones to hold the roast together.

Among the roasts from the chuck or shoulder section of the beef carcass is the chuck blade roast. To identify it, note the bone formation. Most chuck blade roasts have a bone shaped somewhat like a 7. Some have a long narrow flat bone, a sign that the meat comes from near the rib end, probably the most tender part of the chuck.

Because the muscles of the chuck differ in tenderness, thrifty shoppers may wish to use various parts of a blade roast for several different meals. The center muscles of the cut are the least tender and so might be cubed for use as steaks or cut into two flat pieces lengthwise for use as Swiss steaks. The eye muscle that lies opposite the blade bone is the most tender. This part might be separated out for broiling or roasting.

If you are unsure of the location of the eye muscle region, ask your butcher for guidance. Any part or all of the chuck blade roast may be pot roasted or stewed. If your family likes "chewy" as well as tender roasted meats, you may want to choose the U.S.D.A. Prime or U.S.D.A. Choice grades, and

Teacher's Pets Are Eskimos

By ELINOR READING
CORAL HARBOR, Northwest Territories (AP) — The Friday night movie is old; it's 10 miles by snowmobile to the Saturday night dance, and Jennifer Mills' Eskimo pupils often come visiting at 10:30 p.m.

But the 23-year-old Montreal schoolteacher is hooked on teaching in the Northwest Territories.

The pastel-painted classroom and its familiar primers might belong to any first grade in a southern city. But Coral Harbour's school year starts in August and ends in May so the boys can join their fathers for seal hunting before the ice breaks up in June. The community of about 300 is at the north edge of Hudson Bay. School starts at 8:30 with cocoa, biscuits and chewable vitamin tablets for everyone.

The 24 children are in two grades: 7-year-olds doing the usual first grade lessons and 6-year-old "beginners" who spend their first year learning English.

Jennifer said Eskimo children are "far better behaved, really" than their southern counterparts.

UPP's 1968 All-NFL Selections

Pick Colt QB but It's Not Johnny Unitas

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the fourth time in the past five seasons, the Baltimore Colts' quarterback, was selected to United Press International's National Football League All-Star team.

But this time, of course, it's not the same quarterback. John Unitas, who was selected in 1964, 1965 and 1967 (Bart Starr won the honor in 1966), sat on the bench with an ailing elbow this season and watched Earl Morrall direct the club to a 13-1 mark—the best in the NFL since Green Bay posted an identical mark in 1962.

That enabled Morrall to win the quarterback slot on the 1968 NFL team selected by a panel of 48 NFL experts around the nation—three from each league city.

Morrall, who played for four teams before finally making the all-star at Baltimore, is joined in the backfield by Leroy Kelly of Cleveland—the top vote-getter with 47 of a possible 48 votes—and Gale Sayers of Chicago. Sayers made the club even though he missed the last third of the season with an injury.

Pick Paul Warfield
The wide receivers are Paul Warfield of Cleveland and Clifton McNeil of San Francisco with John Mackey of San Francisco at the tight end spot. The interior linemen are center Mick Tingelhoff of Minnesota, guards Gene Hickerson of Cleveland and Howard Mudd of San Francisco and tackles Ralph Neely of Dallas and Bob Vogel of Baltimore.

The defensive teams has three rather familiar names in the front line—Merlin Olsen of Minnesota and Bob Lilly of Dallas at the tackles and Deacon Jones of Los Angeles at an end. But Carl Eller of Minnesota won the other end spot that was long occupied by Willie Davis of Green Bay. Dick Butkus of Chicago is the middle linebacker and Dave Robinson of Green Bay and Mike Curtis of Baltimore are the linebackers.

Boyd at Cornerback Bobby Boyd of Baltimore and Lem Barney of Detroit are the cornerbacks with Larry Wilson of St. Louis and Willie Wood of Green Bay are the safeties. There were only four repeaters on the offensive team this season—Neely, Tingelhoff, Kelly and Sayers.

There were six repeaters on the defensive unit—Jones, Olsen, Lilly, Robinson, Butkus and Wood. Baltimore had five players named to the first squad while Cleveland and Minnesota had three each.

Morrall completed 182 of 317 passes for a 57.4 percentage this season. He passed for 2,909 yards and 26 TDs while winning the passing honors in the NFL. Kelly, who's rushed for more than 1,000 yards for three straight seasons since Jimmy Brown retired and he got a starting job, led the NFL in rushing for the second straight year with 1,239 yards. He also won the scoring crown for the first time with 20 touchdowns for 120 points.

Dallas won the honors on the second team with four of the 22 players while Baltimore and St. Louis each had three players selected.

Hayes Is Receiver
Receiver Bob Hayes, defensive end George Andrie, linebacker Chuck Howley and cornerback Cornell Green were the four Cowboys named. Hayes and Roy Jefferson of Pittsburgh are the receivers with Cleveland's Bill Nelsen at quarterback and Bill Brown of Minnesota's Ken Willard at San Francisco at the backs. Jackie Smith of St. Louis is the tight end.

Bubba Smith of Baltimore and Andrie are the ends with Alan Page of Minnesota and Fred Miller of Baltimore at the tackles. Tom Nobis of Atlanta is the middle linebacker with Howley and Andy Russell of Pittsburgh the linemen. Green and Kermit Alexander of San Francisco are the cornerbacks and Ed Meador of Los Angeles and Rich Volk of Baltimore are the safeties. 019 zzyz talks 12-19 gh

Name Namath
Player of Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York chapter of the Pro Football Writers Association of America Thursday named Joe Namath the American Football League Player-of-the-Year for 1968.

Namath outpolled three of his New York Jet teammates to win the honor after piloting the Jets to their first Eastern Division title in the AFL.

Orange Matmen
Top Ulster, 29-8

Orange County Community College's wrestling team put together four pins to defeat Ulster Community College 29-8 and take over sole possession of first place in the Mid-Hudson Conference, here, Wednesday.

Ulster now has a 1-1 league record with OCC at 2-0 in the conference and 4-0 overall.

The flu bug took the toll on both teams as five Colt regulars were sidelined along with four Ulster starters, giving neither team a decided advantage.

Orange's Bill Smith registered the first pin in with only 1:20 gone in the 145-pound match after being ahead on a take down and near fall.

In the 160-pound class, OCC's captain Len DeMeo used three takedowns and an escape to upend Senator's Jack Warns 8-3.

The one Ulster win came in the 177-pound class as Rich Freeman outpointed Colt's Don Morrison 7-4.

OCC 29, ULSTER 8
123—Ron Lewis (O) dec. Tim Shea, 14-3.
130—Mike DeMuth (O) dec. Wayne DiGiacomo, 12-2.
147—John Warfall (U), won by forfeit.

145—Bill Smith (O) pinned Bill Hager, 1:20.
152—Bob Zick (O) pinned Ed Sarro, 6:50.

Knicks Stop
Celts 104-98

BOSTON (UPI)—With forward Willis Reed leading the New York Knickerbockers to a 14-point lead at the half, the Knicks held off a late game surge by Boston to down the Celtics 104-98 Wednesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Reed dumped in 19 points and snatched 12 rebounds in the first two periods to power the Knicks to a 62-48 lead at the half.

Boston came back strong in the third period and tied the score at 71-71 on a jump shot by Don Nelson with 3:40 left in the stanza.

The lead battled back and forth in the final minutes and with 1:02 remaining, reserve guard Walt Frazier scored on a basket and foul shot to put New York ahead 102-97 and the Celtics were out of contention.

Guard Sam Jones, coming in for the first time in two weeks, scored 10 points for Boston.

High scorer was Boston's Bailey Howell with 31 points. Reed and Dick Barnett each had 24 for the winners.

Hawks Move Up
In other NBA action, Atlanta Hawks moved to within 4½ games of the first place Los Angeles Lakers in the Western Division by downing the Milwaukee Bucks 122-116 at Atlanta. The Hawks Little Three Zemo Beatty, Lou Hudson and Joe Caldwell hit 27, 21 and 18, respectively, as the Hawks extended their winning streak to six straight games.

Each of the Hawk trio has a season field goal percentage of better than 45 per cent. Len Chappell and John McGlocklin had 23 each for the Bucks.

The Baltimore Bullets defeated the San Francisco Warriors 109-100, the Detroit Pistons downed the San Diego Rockets 124-112; the Phoenix Suns overcame the Cincinnati Royals 123-114 and the red hot Philadelphia 76ers topped the Seattle SuperSonics 115-111.

The 76ers scored their 18th victory in 21 games as Chet Walker scores 30 points, Billy Cunningham 23 and Hal Greer 17. Len Wilkens dunked 23 for the Suns.

Jimmy Walker and Happy Hairston scored 27 points each, offsetting a 40-point effort by Elvin Hayes to give the Pistons their first victory under new coach Paul Seymour. Hayes had 19 rebounds but his teammates were guilty of 33 turnovers.

Concordia Drops UCCC — Too Hot To Handle!

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

The rampaging Ulster County Community College Senators demolished Orange County Community College with a 16-9 victory last night at the municipal auditorium, as the Colts' coach Bob Lake joined the growing list of believers. Like Howie Pierson of Rockland and E. L. Evans of Dutchess before him, Lake flatly asserted the 1968-69 edition of UCCC is a better ball club than Joe Uhl and company's 1968 conference champions.

But the one-sided victory—UCCC's seventh straight (4-0 in Mid-Hudson Conference) had to share the spotlight with an announcement earlier in the day from Bronxville, N. Y. There the Rev. Clyde Kaminska, director of athletics at Concordia Junior College, confirmed reports that the downstaters want no part of Ulster in their future scheduling. Ulster routed Concordia 95-76 Tuesday night at Bronxville. Rev. Kaminska also clarified the situation dealing with a scheduled "second game" with Ulster this season on Jan. 30. "They're simply out of our class," said the Rev. Kaminska. "We have only 200 boys to choose from and it's simply a case of playing students against players." The Best Not Enough After Tuesday's contest, Coach Mike Perry of UCCC asked Rev. Kaminska about next year's scheduling and would he like to play. "We're not playing you since this is the best I can get here for players and you beat us regularly with my best" was the even reply. Momentarily stunned, Coach Perry walked away, another college added to the growing list not interested in playing Ulster.

"I never realized it was so difficult to be a winner," the UCCC coach lamented. "Now I know what Dan went through all those years at Siena. When he was not nobody wanted to play, when he was down everybody tried to get into the schedule." Rev. Kaminska said the "second" game in the 1968-69 schedule was a "mistake." "We contracted for a 2-year, one game home-and-home setup only with Ulster," he asserted.

When play resumed, the game. Jesse Larrier potted 17, O'Neil 16, including his first four tries; Ray Lindhorst meshed nine, including four of UCCC's first five points at 5-5. Tony Pough hit 10. Bill Dockstader, a 6-foot speedster, was OCCC's only man in double figures and a consistent performer. He led both teams with 9 fields and added two free throws for 20 points. Coach Lake sat impassively throughout most of the proceedings. He relaxed only briefly when the score was 5-5 then 8-7 UCCC, then the deluge.

From the Jaws of Victory.... Came the SU Heartbreaker

NEW PALTZ — State University's beleaguered basketball Hawks, crushed by two successive one-point defeats did it again here Wednesday night.

The literally had defeat snatched from the jaws of victory, as Potsdam State scored four points in the last 10 seconds to send them reeling to their fourth straight SUNYAC defeat.

It happened like this: Coach Doug Sheppard's charges, flashing their most consistent attack of the season had overcome a 34-31 Potsdam halftime lead to forge ahead 63-60 with 10 seconds on the clock.

Potsdam's Al Pieper drove in for a layup it was 63-62 New Palitz with less than 10 seconds remaining. The Hawks lost possession and then Sam Garafalo fouled Bob Topa with 3 seconds left on the clock.

It was a 1-and-1 situation and Topa coolly sank the tying and winning points.

Potsdam picked up its first SUNYAC victory in two starts while the Hawks are now 0-4 in the conference.

"It was a heartbreaker," said Coach Sheppard. "The fellows played well and deserved to win this one."

The Hawk loss overshadowed a brilliant 23-point effort by Jim Leonardo. Pete Kane dunked 15 and Steve Dane 10 for New Palitz. Pieper and Al Nerna each hit 14 for the visitors.

The contest ended the 1968 phase of the SUNYAC campaign for the locals. Their next outing is Saturday night at Westfield State, Conn.

Buffalo State, 76-54 winners over Oneonta in its last outing, is atop the SUNYAC standings with a 3-0 record and heading for their third straight conference crown.

New Commissioner Friday?

CHICAGO (AP) — Deciding against a waiting game, baseball's major league owners meet Friday to consider a commissioner to succeed William D. Eckert who resigned just 13 days ago.

Eckert, 60, resigned Dec. 6 in a stunning windup of the majors' winter meeting. The action, reportedly taken at the direction of club owners meeting in executive session, ended a criticized three-year regime.

Boomed as a prime candidate, at least in the past, is Mike Burke, who became a director of the New York Yankees four years ago when the Columbia Broadcasting system bought the club and then ascended to Yankee presidency in 1966.

Hawks Top DC on Mats

NEW PALTZ—State University New Palitz Frosh wrestlers trounced Dutchess CCC, 28-15, in a match between two flu-ridden teams here. Five of the nine weight classes were decided by forfeits when the schools failed to floor a representative.

Coincidentally, it was the yearling Hawks' first victory in four outings this season. They will be idle until Jan. 10 when they host Ulster County Community College.

The teams split the four matches that were contested. Gary McClure of New Palitz pinned Tony DiDonna of Dutchess in 5:46 of the third period in the heavyweight match.

The results:
123 lbs.—Bob Blabett (D) forfeit.
130—Larry Fried (D) forfeit.
137—Eytan Cottowitz (SU) dec. Gregor Carr (D), 6-0.
145—Mark Ellison (NP) pinned Don Miller (D), 5:14, 3rd.

Shelighner Slams 738, Ferraro 733

Big Bob Shelighner moved into second place in the Top Ten standings with a blistering 738 in last night's session of the International League.

Meanwhile, the league's high average man, Jack Ferraro took over the fourth spot with a 733.

Shelighner stacked games of 255, 262 and 221 to replace George Washbourne (735) in the No. 2 slot. Ferraro's 733, built on games of 231, 236, 266, moved him past Kildy Corrado (716).

Steve Dodig of Saugerties leads the area shooters with 749. Neither Shelighner nor Ferraro could move their teams over the 3000 mark. Shelighner's 738 was part of a poor 2696, by Wilber Oil, while Ferraro anchored Morgan Hill Poultry Farm's 1043-2951.

Elsewhere in the league, Bruce Hinkley fired 637-244, 214; Chris Gallo 612-209, 214; Herb Petersen 626-245, George Magley 612-204, 211.

Carnegie-Mellon Letter Is Awarded to Kingston Youth

PITTSBURGH, PA.—A Kingston youth was a member of the Carnegie-Mellon University (Pittsburgh) football team which topped two undefeated opponents before closing its 1968 season with a 4-3-1 record.

Roger A. Ohlson, 20, of Route 2, Box 46G, Kingston, was the regular tackle on the Tartan team that upset Allegheny Col-

Lions Butt Rams 82-73 to Keep Rating

By United Press International

Columbia protected its national ranking with a 82-73 victory over Fordham in a battle of unbeaten to highlight college basketball action Wednesday night.

The 17th ranked Lions got 32 of their points from the free throw line in taking the victory, their 17th consecutive at home. Jim McMillian sparked the attack with 24 points. It was Columbia's sixth victory for the 1968-69 season and Fordham's first loss in six games.

In other top games Wednesday, La Salle, rated No. 14 nationally, scored 11 straight points in the final minutes to beat Canisius 68-56; Missouri connected on 13 of 15 charity tosses in the last eight minutes to edge normally high-scoring Tulane 79-73; Texas Christian blasted Hawaii 89-59; and Butler upset 19th-ranked Western Kentucky 67-65.

Also, it was St. John's (N.Y.) over Providence 73-53, Syracuse over Penn State 71-51, Yale over Brown 91-62, Long Island University over Wagner 70-59, Princeton over NYU 88-76, Edinboro over Roberts Wesleyan 126-66, South Carolina over East Carolina 75-61, LSU over Florida 93-89 in overtime, Louisville over Memphis State 67-66 and Eastern Kentucky over Transylvania 78-49.

Tulane had been averaging almost 100 points per contest, but Missouri throttled the Green Wave with a tight man-to-man defense and Tulane's only lead was at 2-0. Missouri and Tulane both are 5-2 for the season.

La Salle, coached by former pro star Tom Gola, trailed by one point with eight minutes to go but then went on a scoring spurt, while holding Canisius without a field goal for the next five minutes, to take its victory.

Texas Christian captured its fourth game in five outings on the marksmanship of forward Doug Boyd. The Horned Frogs ran up a 51-28 halftime lead over winless Hawaii, then emptied the bench in the second half in coasting to victory.

All-America Pete Maravich last season's leading scorer, hit 45 points in Louisiana State's overtime conquest of Florida. LSU led at the half 49-44 but Florida managed to deadlock the game 83-all and send the match into extra minutes.

UCCC Bowlers Take Title

Ulster County Community College's Bowling team clinched the Mid-Hudson Conference championship yesterday with a 7-0 sweep of Rockland Community to extend their victory skein to seven straight without a defeat.

The victory gave Ulster an 18 point margin over second place Orange County Community College, a spread that cannot be made up by the Colts even if they sweep their last two matches.

Kentucky Wesleyan 1st

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky Wesleyan has almost doubled its lead today over runner-up Central State of Ohio in the latest Associated Press small-college basketball poll after tacking two more victories onto its unbeaten record.

The Panthers, winners over Arkansas State and Southwest Missouri State last week for a 5-0 mark, drew 12 first-place votes and 268 points in the balloting by a national panel of 14 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Owensboro, Ky., team's lead is 62 points compared to 33 last week. Central State collected two votes for the top position and 206 points in the latest vote based on games through last Saturday. Central State was idle last week.

Stephen F. Austin gained the most ground, advancing from a tie for 19th to the No. 9 spot. Stephen F. Austin is 6-1 after beating McNeese State 92-87 in its only game last week.

South Dakota State, 4-2, is the only new team in the rankings. SD State moved into 19th place. Winston-Salem State and Westminster, Pa., who were tied for ranking positions a week ago, dropped out of the Top 20.

COURAGE PAYS OFF—Pope Paul VI chats with 20-year-old bride Mrs. Giuseppe Ruisi and her husband, 26, during private audience in Vatican City. Mrs. Ruisi, the former Franca Viola, created a furor on her island of Sicily in 1965 when—defying a centuries-old custom—she refused to marry her abductor, Filippo Melodia, after he kidnapped her and held her two weeks against her will in a secluded farmhouse. Melodia was later sentenced to a 13-year four-month jail term for the act. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

Poverty Still Widespread; Mostly Among the Elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly one household in five had an income of less than $3,000 in 1967, the Census Bureau reported Wednesday, adding that half the households headed by persons in the age 65 and up group were living off this income.

For the population in general, 19.7 per cent of the households had under-$3,000 incomes and 29.9 per cent had $10,000 a year or more to spend.

Incomes of less than $3,000 were found in 53.4 per cent of households headed by men or women 65 and over.

The bureau's examination of the makeup and finances of the 60.4 million U.S. households included these findings:

—In the one in five headed by a woman there was a 49.8 per cent likelihood that the income was $3,000 or less.

—Twenty-three per cent of the households were headed by the person with some college, 12.5 per cent by a person who had attended at least four years.

—Of households headed by persons with four or more years of college, 6.3 per cent were in the under-$3,000 income class, and 60.4 per cent above $10,000.

—Incomes of $25,000 and up were enjoyed by 8.8 per cent.

—The median income of U.S. households was $7,181, meaning half the households had more and half less. In households headed by persons with four or more years of college the median was $11,560; by persons with eight years or less schooling, $5,334.

HS Initiations Under Scrutiny

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "Frankly," wrote the police chief to the high school principal, "our fuses are a little short around here."

Chief Gerald Hayes of the nearby Town of Parish told William Blydenburgh of the Nottingham High School in Syracuse Tuesday that he and his force were cracking down on high school fraternity initiations.

Hayes, who still remembers the massive hunt for two mental patients in his town last year after a state trooper was shot to death, said townspeople were left a little shaken over the weekend by an initiation stunt.

Residents, he said, "complained that young people covered with blood were in the area trying to stop cars."

State Police speeding to the scene found 15 high school pupils that had been dropped off on the road as part of an initiation ceremony.

"Their clothes were covered with molasses and salad dressings and their hair was filthy with eggs and assorted things that had been poured on them," Blydenburgh, who said fraternities were illegal at the high school, said he would find out who the pupils were and warn them to halt such stunts.

Ship Retires All by Itself

VALLEY FIELD, Que. (UPI)

—A 53-year-old Canadian Coast Guard vessel, the Grenville, which was scheduled for the junk pile next June, sank in the St. Lawrence Seaway Wednesday.

The steam-powered, 150-foot buoy tender went down 1,000 feet off the commerce channel of the Beauharnois Canal.

The 30-member crew abandoned ship about 10 minutes before she went under. The vessel had struck the St. Louis Bridge near here.

A new 250-foot tender is under construction and will replace the Grenville. The new ship cost $6 million.

DIES OF OVERDOSE — Actress Joan Tabor (shown with her former husband actor Broderick Crawford in this 1962 photo) died of an apparent accidental overdose of drugs here in Culver City, Calif. She was 36. Dr. David Gold, Miss Tabor's present husband who took her to Memorial Hospital said his wife had been taking a flu medication and may have taken an overdose. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

A Reprieve for Dick Cavett

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dick Cavett's 90-minute morning show on ABC-TV goes off the air Jan. 24, a victim of ratings, but the network has given him a rare vote of confidence. In a rather extraordinary move, Cavett will return to ABC-TV in May, three nights a week in prime time, an hour each outing. And, the network indicates, the witty host may be or even more than that in the future.

Future Expansion
The new series, says ABC-TV, will consist "initially" of Cavett's three-times-a-week scheduled, but has "the intention of future expansion."

Although his present talk-and-entertainment program has been undermined by the ratings, Cavett has won praise from critics, and is well-regarded in the industry both for his intelligence and style. He is considered to have a great deal of potential in the late-night field now dominated by Johnny Carson and Joey Bishop, and is therefore a valuable property.

Acknowledging this, ABC-TV stated Tuesday it has entered into a five-year contract with Cavett. As for his new spring series—which will be a welcome change from reruns—the ABC-TV president, Elton Rule, said: "The network is creating this unusual entertainment platform to give full exposure to Mr. Cavett's celebrated with style and humor."

Cavett, a comedian and former writer for other stars, will continue to originate his program from New York, and the format, says ABC-TV, will be "similarly structured" to his morning series.

UPI dispatch from Albany, N.Y.: "Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller topped comedian Pat Paulsen of CBS-TV's Smothers Brothers Show) by only seven votes in the write-in balloting for president in New York. Both ran a poor third to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, unofficial tallies showed. McCarthy got 314 votes. Rockefeller 54 and Paulsen 47."

OFFICE CAT

Two young American women who were visiting London decided to go horseback riding and went to one of London's swankiest stables to hire horses. Charlie (the stableman)—What kind of saddles do you prefer? Martha (one of the women)—What kind of saddles do you have? Charlie (the stableman)—Well, we have the English (sidesaddle) style and the McLellan saddle has a horn. The women then seemed to understand. Mary (the brighter of the two)—We'll take the English saddles, we're not going to ride in traffic and will not need a horn. Hank—Jake, she'll never start. A moment later, the conductor gave the signal. The engine coughed, the bell sounded, and the wheels began to turn. The two inspectors stood watching as it gained momentum. Presently the train sped out of sight around a curve, and the other hillbilly spoke. Hank—Jake, she'll never stop. A husband came home completely out of breath. His wife asked what was wrong, and he said: George—Nothing, honey. I just ran all the way home behind the bus and saved 50 cents. Grace—Well, that certainly was foolish. Why didn't you run behind a taxi and save $3? Don't worry if you didn't land in a bed of roses. Just be thankful that your parachute opened. A friend of ours was being examined for the Army. Doctor Blank—Any physical defects? Joe (the draftee)—Yes. No guts.

Big Powers Not Aiding Mideast

By SHANE CROSBY

STONE RIDGE — The Arab-Israeli crisis could be reduced to "a local dispute that will take on local dimensions," should the U.S. and Russia ease their influences in the Middle East, according to member of the Israeli United Nations delegation.

Yosef Yaakov, who served in various high level Israeli posts before coming to the U. N., said here last night that the two parties could come to a settlement "probably within a year or two," following a U.S.-Russia easing of the Cold War in the area.

Frictions to go On
He told students and visitors at the Ulster County Community College campus that Arab and Israeli frictions would most likely continue to cause many problems over the next few decades.

Yaakov discussed the crisis as the second part of a two part program on Arab-Israeli problems as seen by both sides. A representative of the Arab states delegation to the U. N. spoke at the college Monday night.

Presenting an informal history of the area and the frictions that brought about the present situation, Yaakov contended that the issue had been compounded by U. S. and Russian involvement.

Yaakov said that in order to see "the full prospective," beyond the June, 1967 war he called "a bright day in June," the involvement of the "super powers" and their presence in the Middle East had to be taken into account.

Citing a number of factors he said that take the crisis "out of the context of mere political," he contended that the "intrusion" of the U. S. and Russia with their Middle East fleets and economic pressures was hampering any settlement.

Carrubba Good

Assaulted and robbed by three men at his St. James Motel on Route 9W in Lake Katrine on Wednesday night, Dec. 11, James Carrubba, 74, was reported in good condition today at Kingston Hospital. Authorities throughout the area continued search for the trio wanted for questioning in connection with the pistol-whipping and robbery of the elderly man. The gunmen got about $20 during the holdup.

Under questioning by some listeners, he said that a relaxation of international tension in the area would allow the Arab and Israeli leaders to settle their major differences without interference. Yaakov added that such a mutual withdrawal by the U. S. and Russia was not likely, but it also would not be impossible. He said their involvement in other areas of the world could keep them from making the Middle East "an area of conflict in the Cold War."

Talk Above Emotion

Few of the faces seen at Monday night's talk could be seen last night, where Yaakov held the discussion on an academic level and above emotion.

Asked about the amount of territory Israel had gained during the June war, Yaakov said it is "not a matter of acquiring territory."

He said the land gained was being used as a bargaining point with which to force the Arab states to the peace table. He said that should a settlement come in the crisis Israel would most likely return "almost all of it."

The only part he said that would not be returned would be the city of Jerusalem. He said the city had been "reunited" and would be considered Jewish.

Israel, he said, would not give up the municipal control of the city, but would consider Jerusalem as "international" only in religious matters. "Freedom of access to holy places of all religions" would be maintained, he said.

Commandos could be controlled in Jerusalem under such an arrangement "without any doubt," Yaakov said. One of the major fears in settlement of the question to return Palestinians to their home land is the problem of order in the city.

Yaakov said the commandos were not as harmful as reports contend, calling their strikes across the Jordan "irrelevant" and resulting in little injury to the heart of the state.

Many on Loan

He said that before the June, 1967 war the commandos amounted to some 650 "hard corps" fighters. Since the war, Yaakov said, there has been "a high wave of recruitment" resulting in a present strength of about 3,500 commandos. Many, he added, were on loan from the regular forces of the Arab states.

He saw them as winning more in the way of public relations than in combat. Yaakov said many joined the commando group as a sort of status position. Referring to a recent cover story in Time Magazine, he said the commandos might be more proud of that effort and the average commando saying could be "I've been on the cover of Time."

Yaakov said more than 2,000 of the commandos were in Israeli jails and said more than that figure had been killed.

He disputed a strength figure of 10,000 as quoted in the magazine saying the figures were from the Arab point of view.

One student asked Yaakov how the crisis was felt by the average Israeli in the form of taxes and conscription into service.

He said the taxes in the state were the highest in the world and that the draft was able to be kept down to two and three years of active service with reserve call up to age 50.

There is no illiteracy in the state, he said, and the draft rejection figure for Israeli youth was about eight per cent. He compared the figure to 65 per cent draft rejection of Arab forces.

Reds Shell U.S. Camps

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist soldiers shelled four U.S. camps guarding Saigon and battled American troops on infiltration corridors toward the city, military spokesmen said today. U.S. forces reported 117 Reds slain.

In the Central Highlands, North Vietnamese troops overran Plei Ring De hamlet, inflicting "moderate" casualties on its defenders, and hammered a nearby village with 100 artillery shells.

In Saigon, U.S. headquarters said 222 Americans died and 1,199 were wounded in battle last week, an increase of 30 dead and 89 wounded from the previous week.

South Vietnam said it lost 198 killed and 815 wounded, up 48 dead and four wounded from the week before.

Battling the Communist threat on Saigon and in other smaller battles last week, the allies reported killing 2,059 guerrillas, an increase of 344 over the Red losses announced last week.

In addition, South Vietnamese spokesmen said 521 Communists were captured last week. The number of Reds killed since Jan. 1, 1961, now stands at 425,329, according to U.S. statistics.

The weekly U.S. casualty report showed 30,279 Americans dead in the Vietnam War and 190,468 wounded, nearly of them this year. Another approximately 1,200 U.S. servicemen are missing in action.

Spokesmen said American troop strength in Vietnam dropped by 1,000 last week to 534,500. Another 35,000 sailors man U.S. warships in the South China Sea.

The Viet Cong today said it planned to free "a number" of U.S. and South Vietnamese prisoners and proposed a battlefield meeting with U.S. officials on Christmas Day to arrange it.

U.S. footsoldiers behind bullet-spraying armored troops carriers and air power Wednesday killed a total of 56 Communists in the Saigon-area fights and 61 in a nine-hour battle with guerrillas threatening Da Nang.

Six flights of U.S. B52 bombers followed up the two battles 75 miles north and 23 miles northwest of Saigon with thunderous strikes against guerrilla retreats between the capital and Cambodia. One raid triggered 18 fireballs in Red arms caches, pilots said.

Headquarters reported one American dead and 20 wounded in the ground fighting. "Light" losses were attributed to what spokesmen called the "harassing" shelling against the U.S. outposts north and west of the capital.

In Saigon, terrorist explosives Wednesday erupted inside a school, in front of a hotel and in an alley, wounding four Vietnamese civilians. South Vietnamese troops defending the capital remained on full alert for the attack their premier said was coming.

American officials said they were studying carefully the Viet Cong proposal to meet 50 miles northwest of Saigon on Christmas to discuss the release of three American prisoners.
